

Month 4 of 2024!

Welcome to the 2nd quarter of 2024, how the heck did that happen?!? The first quarter was a great one, not only personally but also in the agency. We welcomed new clients, had successful open enrollment meetings for our health clients and geared up for the next quarter. Honestly, we are just hoping for some warmer weather again, and to be out walking/riding our bikes and all those fun things. Also to our sports parents, let's hope for some nice weather, especially because we are stuck outside watching the games haha!!

We hope you had a successful 1st quarter and a wonderful month ahead of you!

Take Care, Gianni Zavacos

Life insurance is one of those things no one wants to talk about, but we need to address the elephant in the room.

Life insurance is there for your loved ones, as we are all well aware of. With online platforms available these days there are many that may rely on those at the time of a loss, especially an unexpected loss.

Did you know many times people think that life insurance is more expensive than it ends up being??? I know that this is cliché but it can really cost less than a latte a day depending on your age and medical history. Best part, is you can go through the process of applying for life insurance and obtaining the offer at no cost to you, why wouldn't you take advantage of that?

Here is a blog about a few common questions that we get asked about life insurance:

Life Insurance

While many have probably talked to Megan on the phone, here is a bit more about her:

Hi It's Megan!

myth
As a single mom, my children could rely on family to take care of things if I were to pass away.

fact
A time of grief is not the time to crowdsource funds. Life insurance can help ensure your family would be in a good financial place.
