Beautifully illustrated 52 affirmations with conversation starters.

It is essential to understand that words play a vital role in forming a child's mindset. Research shows that positive words help children to have more emotional control, positive outlook, overall well-being and increased attention span. We often see children suffer from a lack of confidence, self-limiting beliefs, bullying and anxiety over unforeseen circumstances due to preconceived opinions and negative statements they hear. This book provides parents, carers and educators with carefully chosen affirmations and positive conversation prompts that can transform how children perceive themselves, others, and the rest of the world.

[Review]

"I had been looking for a book to help teach my 5-year-old daughter about mindfulness for months and couldn't be happier with my purchase. The book is beautiful and pitched perfectly for young children. We read an affirmation together every evening before bed now. The thoughtful prompts have sparked some lovely discussions, and we both look forward to that part of the day!"

The Sleeping Squad

Picture book - A Collection of Short Stories

The book is a heartwarming collection of tales born out of the creative imagination of a family. The author, her daughter Maahi, and her son Kiaan, who has been diagnosed with Sotos syndrome and ASD, call themselves the Sleeping Squad. The family shares a special bond. Mummy and Maahi would make stories rolling simple characters into situations that Kiaan would understand to make bedtime fun for him. This is how 'Moon in my Room' was born.

Each story in the book is filled with adventure, wonder, and the power of imagination. The characters in the stories range from talking animals to magical creatures, each with their own unique personality and quirks.

It is a book that will inspire readers of all ages to embrace their own unique perspectives and never underestimate the power of a good bedtime story.

Reviews

Great work, great book, love it!

"A beautifully illustrated book of short stories that will spark any child's imagination. Very inspired by this lovely book and the story behind it. My boy loved characters and rhymes. He wants to read about Kiaan over and over again and is a fan."

[REVIEW]

"A book with funny and imaginative short stories. Expressions shared with the choicest words make stories understand minute situational details in daily life and the feelings of characters in each story. Definitely will add many new words to your vocabulary."

Tvisha Vigh

Tvisha is a passionate writer and artist, and her observations of the smallest things in life have inspired her to become an author. Everything she read, watched and listened to was a trigger for writing. The more stories she wrote, the more people read them; it was their responses that motivated her the most. Being an artist has helped her unlock her imagination. She often had really weird dreams, which set her off doodling ideas in her notebook later to design a fabulous story. While she has a passion for art, she would continue to pursue her newly found love for writing and take it to the next level. She aspires to make a career out of it.

A poignant tale of friendship between a canine and a little girl

A beautifully illustrated picture book about a special friendship between a dog and a little girl written by a young writer , Aanya Arora.

The story is inspired by Aanya's life experience as a dog owner. Her dog Barney is terribly scared of fireworks. The book is written to raise awareness of the effects of fireworks on furry friends, of what goes on inside their minds, and how these loud sounds can damage animal's well-being.

Aanya was intrigued to read the fact; that in the UK, there are about five and a half million dogs that are subjected to unnecessary fear and anxiety caused by fireworks. Through this book, her aim is to encourage people to consider and resolve this situation and to be kind to pets and all animals.

The book is written from a dog's perspective and shines light upon the fears and feelings that go through their mind because of the fireworks.

An excellent bedtime read for children.

[REVIEW]

Aanya Arora

"I highly recommend this book to all young readers and, in fact to all audiences.

It has been beautifully illustrated and it could be read alone by a competent young reader or would be a fantastic story to read together as a family to share the lovely illustrations and discuss the message of the story whilst being entertained by the events of MRead more about review stating I highly recommend this book to all young readers and in fact to all audiences.

It would be wonderful if every parent in the land could read this story to their children to raise awareness about how fireworks affect their pets and other creatures."

"What If I Can-" A Tale of Courage and Conservation" is a heartwarming picture book about a young girl named Aashvi who is afraid of thunders and torrential rains. Whenever a storm approaches, Ashvi hides under her bed and refuses to go out for days. When she learns in school about the importance of trees in preventing frequent rains and floods. She understands how cutting trees affects the environment and leads to climate change, which in turn causes extreme weather conditions like thunderstorms.

As Avisha begins to understand the impact of cutting trees, she starts to see thunder in a new light. Instead of fearing it, she begins to appreciate its role in bringing rain and nourishing the trees. With her newfound understanding, also learns to appreciate the beauty and power of nature, and she no longer feels afraid of loud thunders and rains. She starts a conservation campaign with her teacher and friends to protect and plant trees.

The story is set in the small town of Kullu, India and is filled with vibrant illustrations imparting powerful messages. "What If I Can-" A Tale of Courage and Conservation" is a must-read for children and families who want to learn more about the natural world and how we can protect it for future generations. This uplifting story will inspire young readers to overcome their fears, appreciate the wonders of nature, and take action to make the world a better place.
