

For Mothers First

Welcome

As you review the two new names above, I need to share - that I have been directed to bring this message to endowed mothers first. I have learned the women in the Church will give birth to the Political Kingdom of God or the new name being Habitat for Health.

In introducing mothers to this work, they will be given tools or we may say clarity regarding seven Simple Living Centers - as keys to increasing their capacity to receive revelation. I have been experiencing this new understanding since the year 2000, the experience reminds me of my son getting his first pair of glasses in 3rd grade. When he put them on he just said WOW, .... WOW....and WOW again. This work is regarding how mothers can move to new levels in feeding and healing their families and others that may be drawn to this in the community.

In a larger vision of this work, this is about how entire neighborhoods and towns can transition to a new way of life. Let me provide some background.

In 1999, when finishing graduate work at BYU in Educational leadership, I felt prompted to ask God for direction regarding an Education Center I was operating. Our family had been given trust funds from the Smith family, relatives of Joseph Smith's grandfather Asael.

This Education Center was a key part of my work in exploring what education was envisioned to be in Zion communities that Joseph foresaw. The answer I received was out of the box you might say. I was told I would develop a curriculum taught with the hand to help mothers prepare their children for the temple.

I did not learn - until almost 15 years later, that this temple within, was the new name given, or the seven Simple Living Centers of our divine nature. I detailed presentation on how to teach this with the hand can be found at this link.

As you review the two new names given, realize I have been directed to bring this message to endowed mothers in the Church first. In introducing mothers to this work, mothers will be given tools to increase their capacity to receive revelation regarding how these Simple Living Centers relate to the work of feeding and healing their families and others that may be drawn to this in the community.

In the Health crisis many experience today, this is a vital message and I believe will be key to thriving and surviving through the challenges of the last days. As this was out of the box for me, I would suggest you be prepared to consider a message that is out of the box,....or as one Isaiah scholar says,

God's end time servant will bring a message to those of the covenant - spiritual kings and queens, a message "which had not been told them" and "which they had not heard" (A. Gileadi: How Isaiah Impacts Gospel Theology page 1)

He continues to suggest that the importance of the end-time servants message and the open-mindedness of those of the covenant ...appears to be key for those who attain a level of kings and queens, or in this case vital leaders for the home and community.

This message is clearly related to moving beyond the milk of the gospel, to the higher simple ways of life, climbing Jacobs ladder some say, or we may say the things we learn of in the temples and the temples within us. Elder Bednar referenced our lessons regarding our temples within us during the shutdown of the temples with COVID.

I have been given key pieces of a plan regarding - how a small group of people can begin now -in their homes and in the Lords time, help lead a grass roots movement in tipping the consciousness of local neighborhoods and entire towns - in transitioning to a new way of life,---- to local healthy food producing homes and more - sustainable communities with new tools to reach out to lift and help those in need.

Preparations for this work have been ongoing for decades. More specifically key pieces of a puzzle have come together in the year 2000 and since 2010.

One key piece came - when this end time role was confirmed to me by the Savior while staying in the living quarters in the foyer of the Korea temple in 2017 for three days.

The visit of the Savior to me was -- unexpected -- as he was dressed in work clothes in the temple - when he came toward me and we saw each other face to face. I felt peace - like I was with a friend. I closed my eyes and he then placed his hands on my feet and then my head. No audible words were spoken as I already knew why he was there what he was confirming to me . From his work clothes - it was clear we needed to get to work.

I had learned to enjoy work since early in my life, so that was not a problem, but the second message was a problem and clear from my stay at the temple. It was impressed to me to read Isaiah. In all my 45+ years in the Church, I would never seem to understand Isaiah. The Book of Mormon said we needed to know the language of the Jews to understand Isaiah.

My Catholic father married a Jewish woman later in life and I felt unusually close to her, and I felt drawn to the Jewish culture in general. I felt prompted to visit the Jewish center at the Roots Tech conference in about 2016 - and when I walked up to the booth- they asked me if I had Jewish relatives. I started to say no, and the spirit stopped me, and my stepmother Joyce came to mind. I said, oh, yes I do.

My Jewish step mother and I shared a common vision of a world where everyone needs could be taken care of without war and conflict. Well, I did not learn Hebrew, but a messenger had come in my life about a year earlier, a young return missionary was lead to direct me to Avraham Gileadi's work regarding an end-time Davidic servant coming out of the loins of Judah and foreseen by the Prophet Joseph.

Dr. Gileadi was a scholar that has learned Hebrew and who became regarded as one of most qualified in the world to teach Isaiah. I do not consider myself in any sense a bible scholar. but I learned a great deal of Mr. Gileadi's work, the his Isaiah books helped me learn to use the literary tools for understanding Isaiah. In addition, some of those same tools I found myself using in understanding dreams and visions I was being given.

On this website you can learn of the seven Simple Living Centers (SLC) of our divine nature, and as a mother how you can teach agency based education with the language of these of these SLC. I have learned and want to share how - in new ways you can awaken the hearts and souls of your children to in entirely new way of life.

Likewise, when preparing husbands for this message, women can receive heavenly divinely guided love that opens entirely new conversations in the home. Not conversations of the mind, but conversations of the heart, and all the 7 centers of the body. You will learn a new language of life, as you are introduced to the Simple Living Centers of your temple within. This is a language missing in many schools, in many homes and in many Church settings.

This simple language can help bring a sealing love and bond, between husband and wife, parents and children and new levels of trust and inner peace. A peace that guides you to tune into your body in the proper use of power and authority. I believe a map of the soul will emerge and a path of health and healing for both your self and family, but also a healing of past generational issues- that if not addresses get passed on to future generations..

Dr. Gileadi, says, the end time servant — Isaiah refers to ...will bring a model form of leadership, with wings of healing. That model has been given to me and is in this website- and more importantly it is within each of us. Education means to bring forth from within.

How the Simple Living Centers Education has worked in the real world will come from over 40 years of experiences. I would not have normally changed jobs so often, but was directed to from the spirit. Experiences will cover from 1980 and my years as a temple engineer, to working as a college manager, teacher, principal, director of a mental health center and later running operations at the State Capitol. As experiences come to mind, and are prompted by the spirit - I will continue to add educational film clips that apply, and I will plan to do short 5-10 minutes videos from my career you can watch each month with add links to the website.

We each can discover new levels of servant leadership and how to use this compass within us - to assist us in this work- a work that brings realignment to the Church as Dr. Gileadi says the Prophet Isaiah foresaw.

I feel reading his books on Isaiah- is like pieces of a puzzle fitting together. A larger capacity to receive revelation can be found in the seven Simple Living Centers of our spiritual - emotional anatomy revealed in 2010 as part of this work..

In 2022 and 2023, pieces continue to be revealed and fit - like pieces of a puzzle of many levels. My wife recently had a dream of the walls of the banks folding down like a cardboard box, then people were dressed in farm clothes as a new green economy - symbolized rolls of green grass - unrolling across the landscape- followed by communities working together with time for dance, enjoying music, a love for animals and new levels of community union and pure joy.

I continue to be shown in dreams that our health, the simple ways of the Word of Wisdom, and being in top shape--- will be important in being part of this end time leadership effort. Destructions will come, and are coming as I write this -- for many in the form of poor health and a food supply that is not bringing life and health. See Ezekiel 34.

Isaiah indicates added problems will have a domino effect as the end of this worlds way of life nears. These may flow from health problems , to environment problems, to financial collapse. We can avoid the destroying angel , and I have received multiple witnesses in dream and visions to share the work of John Christopher, a master herbalist - and member of the Church, a man some consider- the father of modern herbal medicine. Here is a link for his work.

I was also shown in very symbolic dreams that their will be those who will pass by this work and focus on good things as family needs - church work and financial concerns .. yet be too busy to consider a message from a higher source.
