Cold pressed, first press extra virgin olive oil. Not all olive oil is created equal. Olives go through a series of pressings when making olive oil. The first press produces the highest quality oil with all of it's natural therapeutic properties intact. Each press produces a gradually lower quality oil. We use only the highest grade olive oil which some studies suggest rivals the anti-inflammatory power of ibuprofen making it a perfect match for inflammatory skin conditions. This olive oil absorbs deep into skin and locks in moisture all day.

Grade A Triple Filtered Yellow Beeswax is, believe it or not, high in vitamin A. Vitamin A plays a crucial role in every stage of wound healing. It also encourages natural collagen production. The anti-aging properties are great also for the hands and neck area. It also forms a light breathable moisturizer barrier on the skin's surface. This is great for locking in moisture. It won't clog pores like petroleum based products. The best part is that it's so close to it's natural form that it still carries the faint scent of honey.

Rose Hip Oil is chocked full of natural and highly bioavailable vitamin C which brightens skin and fades hyperpigmentation and acne scars.

Tea Tree Oil has powerful antibacterial properties and acts as an astringent. This helps to keep breakouts at bay and minimize the size of pores.

Hyaluronic Acid. We use only low molecular weight hyaluronic acid because it is more easily absorbed into the skin making it much more effective than lower quality versions.

When absorbed into the skin it attracts moisture and locks it in. A quarter teaspoon of hyaluronic acid can absorb about one and a half gallons of water. It's proven to aid in wound healing because it elevates collagen levels in order to heal skin. This also makes it very effective at smoothing fine lines and wrinkles.

Lavender essential oil is good for more than just relaxation. It also helps to smooth fine lines and wrinkles.
