From Archives

From the Archives - J.V. Hicks has long been regarded as St. Alban's favourite author, but the extended Cathedral family produced another author in Selwyn Dewdney, the son of Bishop Dewdney, who was the first rector at St. Alban's. Selwyn Dewdney was born in Prince Albert on October 22, 1909, and moved with his family to Kenora, Ontario in 1924. He became known for pioneering art therapy in Canada and for documenting Indigenous pictographs - work that demonstrated the power of visual expression in psychiatric healing and the preservation of cultural knowledge. He published seven books, including "The Sacred Scrolls of the Southern Ojibway" (1975), which remains the only volume dedicated exclusively to this subject. (See photo on Mailchimp)
