Physical Therapist Job Posting

Super-interesting position open at a very small, private school for children (5-21) with multiple disabilities. You will get to work with a very small caseload (about 6 students) who use adaptive equipment and challenge your knowledge daily! Most students use wheelchairs, gait trainers, standers, etc. and most are nonverbal. Are you up to the challenge?

Pathways Children's School is a transdisciplinary program that serves students who have various neurophysiological disorders, which affects their physical, cognitive, social and emotional development. This impacts their ability to move, learn and communicate in the same way as their typically developing peers. The modified common core curriculum will be highly individualized and tailored to each students' learning needs which include but are not limited to: learning style, learning rate, and access.

We are committed to the learning of students with very high needs in most or all need areas, including academic, social and/or interpersonal development, physical development and management. Via the application of a high degree of individualized attention and intervention, very intense individual programming, continual adult supervision, and a program of conductive education, physical, occupational and speech/language therapy, it is our mission to enable this under-served community to access the information and experience that will enable them to both understand and interact with their world.
