Key Focus: Teaching leaders and organizations how to unleash their potential, one actionable conversation at a time.

Kristy Busija, ACC, BCC, is the Founder of Next Conversation Coaching, LLC., a leadership coaching and consulting company that works with individuals and teams to unleash their potential and realize sustainable results. She has been involved in international executive development for more than 20 years in the capacity of coach, facilitator, and workshop leader. Her work is highly individualized, promotes sustained behavioral change, and is aligned with the strategic goals of the organization.

She has dedicated herself to helping individuals and teams get “unstuck” and unleash their potential, which results in motivated employees and bottom-line performance. She is known for quickly getting to know her clients and creating a safe environment of trust, which allows her to lead her clients into uncharted territories. Her powerful intuition, blended with her ability to shift perspective, opens the door for others to successfully and comfortably bring their ideas to light.

She was among the Top 20 Coaches in Charlotte (2021) and contributes to multiple leadership blogs (Forbes.com, FairyGodBoss, to name a few).
