James Ford Rhodes Alumni Association 2017

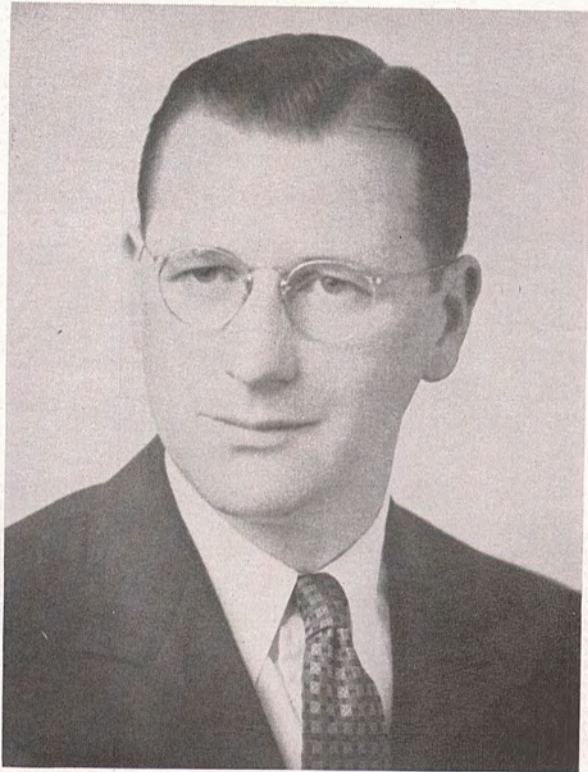

Members of the Class of January 1945:

May you who are leaving Rhodes High School at this time dedicate yourselves to the task of making certain that the sacrifices of this war period have not been made in vain; that the cause of freedom for which we fight shall find a lasting place in this, our America.

Best wishes to each of you.

Sincerely,

NEIL D. MATHEWS

E. J. HOLDEN

We, the members of the Senior Class of January "45," dedicate our Year Book to smiling, congenial Mr. Holden, who indeed was a real pal. His inspiration and guidance as homeroom teacher, teacher of typing and book-keeping, and as Track Coach, has been a valuable assistance to us, and shall always be a fond memory of our years at James Ford Rhodes High. We offer our sincere appreciation for his wholesome collaboration, and 68 individual heartfelt wishes for his continued health, happiness, and leadership for many years to come.

CLASS HISTORY

Brandt, Matusky

Friends, Rhodians, and "Seniors," we bring before you a modest panorama of four years of study, friendship and well — just fooling around.

One hundred and forty-two freshmen, four years ago, now audacious, supercilious seniors, staggered up the hard stone steps with great apprehension of our coming future. (Little did we know.)

The most prominent event in our freshman year was the usual "get acquainted" freshman party.

Carolyn Weich (June '44) was the first lucky girl to have her personality in the "Rhodes Review."

Bernard Brundson came in the sports highlight for claiming the light-weight Intramural Championship of "41."

We ended our freshman year a little braver and wiser.

We entered our Sophomore year, a mob of rushing, determined kids.

John Watt was the first "Soph" to make the varsity pigskin. On the reserve came Bob Holan, Kenneth Klingman, Kenneth Ingham, George Hubay, and Don Closter. (hoping, hoping)

Bernard Brunson, Don Closter, Kenneth Ingham, and George Hubay made the Boys' Leaders.

And then one day the Ducis Hi-Y came forth, with it, an era of memorable events.

Our class decided to organize upon entering our junior year. Duane Cassidy (June '44) was elected President.

Jack Dodd and Bill Brandt made a great attempt at Cross Country. Marge Figula made that spectacular broad jump of 7' 8", almost breaking the record for girls.

Margaret (Scotty) Sinclair was crowned, "Miss Victory," in a contest during the 3rd War Loan Drive. She was sponsored by the Latin Club and Ducis Hi-Y.

In our Junior Year Bernard Brundson scored taking the City and State Championship in wrestling.

Our hoping was not in vain for Kenneth Klingman, Bob Holan, and George Hubay, made the Varsity football. Fred Schuller made the varsity basketball squad, while Ben Lasovsky went places by shot putting.

Our 12B Semester became very prominent when our class voted in favor of having our regular 12A informal and formal this semester because due to the draft, some of our boys would be drafted before graduation.

Despite the fact that our social activities were limited and hard to put across because of the war, we managed our events with great success.

Bright lights, jivy music, and gay colors added to the Mexican theme of our Senior informal. Terrace Gardens was the added attraction later in the evening.

The theme of our Senior formal was "Neptune's Frolic." At 8:30 the evening of May 27 we entered our gym — lights lowered, the atmosphere was one of romance and gaiety. We "tripped the light fantastic" by the music of Buddy Murray and his orchestra.

We clinched this semester with a picnic at Snow Road Metropolitan Park.

In the dramatic field two of our class scored in the spring show. The Sinatras' were Ken Ingham and Ken Klingman.

Another one of our girls proved her glamour. Mary Schimkola became Track Queen attendant.

In closing the senior year we donate a great deal of credit to Ken Ingham for his handling of the 12B class.

After one semester of Journalism, Pat Matusky became Associate Editor of the Rhodes Review.

Alas, we became 12A's.

Four hundred freshmen entered Rhodes in September '44 to make our tremendous class of 68 look sort of lost.

The usual squabbles over class president, year books, picnics, class colors, and caps and gowns followed. Luckily these were settled by Commencement.

Early in October all the kids dragged out their beat-up slacks and blue jeans, to forget homework for one evening and blew out to Snow Road Metropolitan Park for our last, but most unforgettable class picnic.

Fred Schuller edged out Ken Ingham in the battle for class president.

Pat Matusky became Editor-in-Chief of the "Rhodes Review." (Big Deal.)

Football season brought with it a host of honors for the class. John Watt and Bob Holan were main stays of the squad with, of course, Ken Ingham's and Ken Klingman's help.

With only the thoughts of Class Day and Commencement most of us are meditating about the future. (For the boys—whether we can make the infantry. For the girls—wondering where we can hook a man.) As we think back of all the good times we had at our picnics, dances, formal and informal, we have a big lump in our throats at the thought of leaving "Dear Old Rhodes High."

(In closing, Brandt and Matusky are leaving all the headaches for the next Class History Committee.)

CLASS PROPHECY

The pungent aroma of frying hamburgers and bubbling coffee arose from behind the empty counter and wafted back to assail the nostrils of the two decrepit characters slouching in the back booth. A red neon sign spelling out "Dunks" flashed off and on with monotonous regularity lighting up the two aged and weary faces. Sadness crept over them as they noticed among the many carvings displayed on the sadly mutilated tabletops, some bearing the inscription, "January '45." The date on the calendar propped on a shelf behind two enormous salt cellars was February 1, 1950.

The two decrepit characters sighed mournfully at each other, and gazed into their cooling coffee. The days following that memorable January, 1945, slipped by in lazy review, and they settled down to exchange reminiscences and compare notes.

The warm cheeriness of this room disappeared, and there they were—outside in the snowy, slushy streets, wandering in the vast confusion of a great metropolis—Brooklyn.

The morale of the armed forces has dropped to nothing since the mimeograph machine of Susan Malik broke down.

Ruth Daehler has gained fame in the world of poetry for the "Uncle Louie" gags.

Norman Bauer and John Bognar, lifeguards at Edgewater, recently performed the amazing feat of swimming ten miles to rescue Bill Brandt when one of his homemade boats capsized.

Gertie Kapelka is now living on the interest of her ten years' savings.

Barney Brunson has taken up wrestling in the back seat of his convertible.

Louis Schubert and Art Neil took up chewing after L-S-M-F-T went out.

Lois Jean Logelin married one of her glamorous interns.

Ken Ingham, Fred Schuller, and Ken Klingman made their debut singing cowboy songs at the New Y.

Roy Lytle is having lots of ups and downs in his life. He's an elevator operator.

Dorothy Wolf has just signed a contract to strut for the Salvation Army.

Florence Lysyk married a man from Knappsville.

Bill Rosch and Milton Lenc finally passed their "Tenderfoot" test for the Boy Scouts of America.

Scottie Sinclair has established an institution for old maids and black cats. Verna Jene Grimm really knows her A, B, C's, she makes letters for Alphabet soup.

Wilbur Bittle is still trying to remember the fundamentals of driving as taught by Mr. Kaufmann.

Richard Clarke is in a rut from repairing helicopters.

Ruth Matusky is still going steady.

Lena Maraldo failed to get herself re-elected to Congress for a third term.

Ethyl Alexander used her charm and personality-plus to get herself voted.

Marge Figula fell off a cliff while trying to make a flash bulb picture of the Grand Canon by night.

Don Closter is getting kind of tired of having women call up at the Y.M.C.A.

Virginia Bluhm has been making her living as a lecturer to the Women's Aid Societies of America.

Dorothy Ferguson beat all records by securing her master's degree at the feeble age of twenty.

Helen Kopchak married a "Kop."

Betty Ward and Barbara Wick are doing a sister act. They sing duets every Saturday night on the stage of the Broadview Theatre. The stage show, by the way, is a new innovation of Ruth Taliak, who is a promotion manager for Big Theatres.

Andrew Martin and John Vitkovics are looking fed up. They are the chief cooks at the Greek's.

Dave Wittmer is still working at a butcher shop. They call him "Fingerless" now.

Bernice Mueller is a gym instructor for all kindergarten classes at her old Alma Mater "Ben Franklin." She has taught her students to be especially adept at Drop the Hankie.

Herb Adler (the man with the trombone) finally became a great leader — a leader of a rubber band.

Bob Warden laughed too hard at Bob Hope one night and broke a blood vessel.

Mary Schimkola is out of commission permanently. She yelled too hard at her four kids once and lost her voice for good.

Dora Michalson and Eleanor Platt are still trying for their 200-words-a-minute award in shorthand.

Stanley Dydek is becoming slow on the draw. His kids beat him to the last pork chop the other night.

George Hubay is making plenty of Jack (playing the slot machines).

Alyce Mahoney is doing her canvassing over at William Rainy Harper now. We hear she has her eye on a cute ten-year-old.

Martha Hall is still trying to lure any available bachelors to the altar.

Ben Lasovsky is in Deaconess Hospital after an argument with his better half — she hit him with a rolling pin.

Ed Piatak is scouting all the softball team for the Cleveland Girls' Baseball League.

Eileen Zep was the feature attraction at the Big "R," until she spied Don Seaman in the front row one evening.

Addie Witthuhn and Warren Young are strolling down life's paths together gazing dreamily into each other's eyes.

Eleanor and Evelyn Michaels received medals from the "Board of Education" for bravery and courage as they became teachers at their old Alma Mater, James Ford Rhodes.

Ruth Fogleson has become a sweeping success. She demonstrates new vacuum cleaners in a big department store.

Joyce Brink, Edith Hitz, and Loretta Joblonski are dancing in the chorus of the aforementioned theatre. They are the three best hoofers in the front row.

John Watt is coaching football at Podunk High. Funny, his first string all have the same name — Watt.

Don Tache and Eugene Portz are following Gypsy's act with some slapstick comedy. (They eat — after the show.)

Gerhard Muhlstadt — after trying for several years — finally got the job of managing Gypsy Rose Lee.

Bob Mittlestadt, after careful geometric and algebraic calculations — comes to the remarkable conclusion the sun always rises in the east.

Bob Holan and Pat Matusky kept the Hayes' office very busy with censorship.

Bill Kraft, President of The Kraft Cheese Company, invents a new cheese to go with his corn.

Al and LaVerne, the two decrepit characters, finally paused in their memories, and noticed the meaningful glances the waitress had been casting their way for the past two hours. They arose from their places, stretched their weary, aching twenty-three year-old bones, picked up their crutches, and crept disconsolately out of the door, each going his separate way.

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

We, the class of January 1945, being of sound mind (before the Psycho Test) and strong heart (they haven't tested that yet) do hereby set down our Last Will and Testament in hopes that it will stand up.

THE WILL

Section I

- Art. 1. We, the class, leave first of all our loyalty, faith, and love to Rhodes, our Alma Mater. It is with real regret we leave her halls, and admonish those who still traverse them after we leave, to uphold her traditions and honor with all that is in them.
- Art. 2. To the faculty we extend our appreciation for their extra time and pains they have taken to guide us in the right paths of life. Also, we leave a prescription to be issued to each teacher, made up of 10 grains of bicarb, a box of Carter's Little Liver Pills and a half a Tum. This will ease their pain inflicted by our own maddening ways, and, no doubt, our passing from the scene will aid them greatly too.
- Art. 3. The girls sadly bequeath Miss Brooker to her next homeroom, and hereby give warning that she is to be treated royally or else!!! The boys leave behind Coach Holden and Mr. Tanko, who both did a swell job of keeping the boys out of hot water. (A little batting around helped, too!)
- Art. 4. We would like to see any class following us try to beat us out of second place in the "smallest class" contest. Even the band this year is larger than our class. Big deal!!!

Section II

- Art. 1. We, the boys of the 12A Class anxiously leave Rhodes to see the world and the wonderful United States - - - Army!
- Art. 2. In reference to the previous article, what does this leave the girls? Three guesses!
- Art. 3. We leave to any class following, the style set by us exclusively. To wit: Being the first class to combine boys and girls in the same homeroom. It may facilitate class meetings but it's sure rough on both parties concerned.
- Art. 4. For four years now we have been hoping to leave a championship behind in football. The Charity Game looked mighty sweet to us four times and four times now we dragged our sad hearts to the home pastures. Let us know when we do lose the jinx.

Section III

- Art. 1. Al Warger leaves Mr. Effron and Mr. Harsh still wondering how he thought up all those "nutty" excuses and still got away with them for the past four years.
- Art. 2. What is the Rhodes Review going to do without Matusky? Get along, no doubt!
- Art. 3. Holan, Watt, Klingman and Ingham leave a little GAP in the line for Coach Van to fill. Total weight: 714 pounds.

- Art. 4—Addie Witthuhn doesn't mind graduating since Warren is getting his sheepskin, too.
- Art. 5. LaVerne Wittich leaves the Shorthand Department a little shorthanded, but takes her 120-word certificate along.
- Art. 6. Ruth Daehler donates the front half of "Clementine" to anyone who wishes to try breaking his or her neck on stage as a horse.
- Art. 7. "Bunny" Mueller relieves the Sports Department of one of its finer members and ditto the "Michaels."
- Art. 8. "Pug" Michalson won't leave her picture of a certain someone named "Danny." Stubborn kid, ain't she?
- Art. 9. Verna Grimm is looking for someone to whom she can will her pastime of plaguing Miss Brooker.

Section IV

- Art. 1. We leave "Hancy's Hamburger Haven" to all undergrads who want to spend their free periods getting good meals.
- Art. 2. If anyone can find a few moldy pretzels in 315 left there by the class after our picnic, he is welcome to them.
- Art. 3. Gerhard Muhlstadt is taking his name along so no one can mispronounce it at Rhodes anymore.
- Art. 4. Roy Lytle bequeathes the piano in the lunchroom to any up-and-coming Paderewski who can play "Tonight We Love," or as Roy presents it "Tchaikowsky Concerto," as well as he did.
- Art. 5. Loretta Jablonski wills her horrible screams to any girl with the proper voice and experience. P.S. Loretta will probably wind up as the sound effect on the Hermit's Cave Program.
- Art. 6. We leave practically all the lockers in the place to other classes since we occupied 9/10ths of them at one time or another.
- Art. 7. We aching Senior boys leave "Uncle" George Seedhouse to think up some new fiendish calisthenics for those following in our dragging footsteps.

And so having left practically everything behind us except our memories, which include some of the most memorable experiences of our lives, we write our names in the sands of memory and hope that the tide of time will never wash them away.

RHODES MARCHING SONG

Let's sing to the sky
The song of Rhodes High;
We're all for one and one for all,
Our motto is to do or die.
Come on Blue and White,
Keep up the good fight,
Raise high the colors, all will see,
We march right on to victory.

RHODES HYMN

Dear old Rhodes High,
Thy wisdom lights our paths,
Thy friendships true stay with us to the last
We stand united in thy purpose true,
Loyal and faithful to the White and Blue.
