James Ford Rhodes High School

June Class, 1959

James Ford Rhodes Alumni Association 2022

Dear Mr. Folkman,

By now you probably know that your English classes are one of the most talked about subjects in the halls of Rhodes High. This is so because of your very likeable, yet unusual personality. As fearful ninth graders we were very dubious about approaching you. Hadn't we listened with amazement as the experienced students told us how you bellowed, and even occasionally gave forth with a huge roar? Therefore, we entered your room with feelings of anxiety and trepidation. Fortunately the terrible picture we had constructed in our minds quickly vanished as we became further acquainted with you. We all now agree that nothing better could have happened to us.

Your students never know what you are going to say or do next. This tends to keep us on our toes, and put pep into our classes. We see that education can be enjoyable as well as profitable. It seems impossible, but with your witticisms and prompting even grammar can be made bearable. What gives us the most pleasure though, is that you seem to regard us on an adult level. In all respects you have always been straightforward and fair. It was you who first made us really realize the importance of the world around us.

Mr. Folkman, besides remembering you as a terrific English teacher, we can further recall your efforts by glancing at our back copies of the Rhodes Review. The school certainly owes you a vote of thanks for the entertainment and news you have offered Rhodes for the past twenty-five years as advisor of this paper.

Sincerely,

The June Class of 1959

Dear Mrs. Theodore,

During your three years at Rhodes you have earned the friendship and appreciation of all your students. It is easy to see why this is so. Your pleasing personality and unending patience are a hard combination to beat. Never once have you raised your voice or spoken harshly to one of your pupils. This is an accomplishment in itself.

Possessing an interest and understanding in all student activities displays your untiring efforts, vitality, and good sense of humor. It seems that whenever any of us has a problem or a question we can be sure of helpful advice and probably a solution if we come to you. Mrs. Theodore, your encouragement and suggestions have been a great benefit to us.

We'll pleasantly remember your enjoyable classes, and even the way we good naturedly teased you about that Bostonian accent. Seriously, a successful teacher like yourself is a tribute to the field of education. The graduating seniors are certainly glad of their opportune acquaintance with you.

Sincerely,

The June Class of 1959

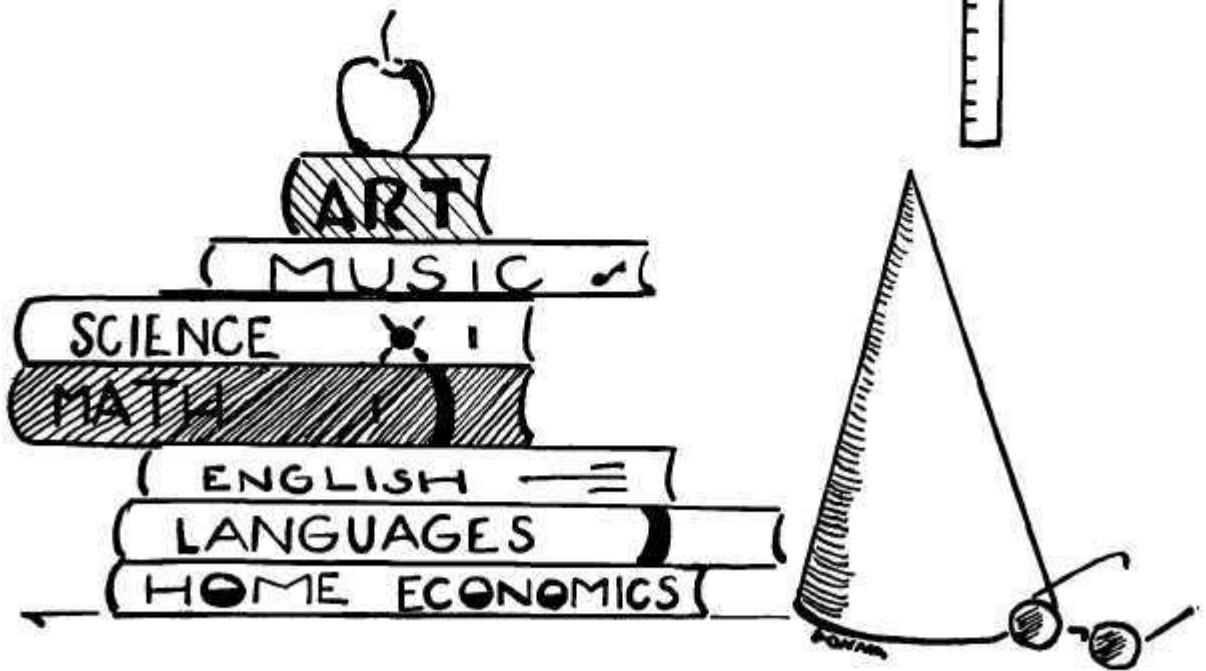

Dear Mr. Mathews,

The Graduating Class of 1959 commends you for the firm leadership and sensible guidance you have shown us during our four years at Rhodes. Your wise coordination of the ideas and plans of the student body and faculty illustrate your good judgment. The dignity with which you preside over assemblies, cope with school problems, and represent James Ford Rhodes in affiliation with the PTA, Kawanis Club, etc., is a boastful honor for our school. As principal, you do indeed exult your title in leading Rhodes students toward success.

Sincerely,

The June Class of 1959

FACULTY

Dear Mr. Blum,

This short note of gratitude hardly seems enough to express the June 1959 Class's feelings toward the magnificent job you are doing as Dean of Boys. Your deep understanding of each boy and his problems is certain to impress and benefit the students of Rhodes High now and in the years to come. We thank you for your perseverance in adjusting schedules, taking care of attendance, initiating discipline, and dealing with grades. Memories of your friendliness and consideration will be carried away with each one of us.

Sincerely,
The June Class of 1959

Dear Miss Palmer,

A warm smile, sympathetic concern, and a good sense of humor are all words generally ascribed to you. Truly, as Rhodes's Dean of Girls, you exemplify the highest educational standards as you solve our problems, arrange schedules, and encourage us to achieve our goals.

Appreciation is now given for the past four years' assistance and guidance in helping us become worthwhile citizens.

Sincerely,
The June Class of 1959

Dear Mr. Ferguson,

The class of June, 1959, wishes to thank you for your wonderful help and thoughtful understanding of all our minor problems when they seemed to us to be of the greatest magnitude. Your personal guidance and warm friendship to every student who needed assistance has made you a man whose sound advice will be remembered by all of us in the years to come.

Sincerely,

English Department

The variety of English courses at Rhodes High enables all students to have opportunities in expressing themselves accurately in both oral and written work. There is emphasis upon writing, grammar, and spelling in each class. Through the reading of biographies, poems, novels, dramas, short stories, and essays pupils become acquainted with a wealth of usable material. To add to this knowledge creative writing and autobiographies encourage and develop personal skill. Famous works such as Moby Dick, Lorna Doone, and Othello come to life under the guidance of our excellent teachers.

Each individual is able to pursue his own interests in the field of English by choosing his own type of course, and also by participating in journalism, speech, and drama classes.

Mathematics Department

Through abstracts and unknown quantities the math department endows in the student a practical stability which will help him in his future life. Whether he enters the world of business, or just fills out his income tax, this knowledge makes him a better citizen and a better member of the community.

Music Department

Drum rolls, horns blaring, voices singing, all are a part of our great music department. Music, choral and instrumental, has added spice to our daily routine of schoolwork. The fine concerts have made a lasting impression on every student who has participated in them or has heard them. Music enables us to better understand the minds of people the world over, to reach out our hand in musical friendship.

Science Department

Minute bacteria, complicated mechanisms, and smelly test tubes have brought us into contacts with nature and the world around us. Better informed on life itself, we are prepared to face our future a little more confident and ready to uphold our part in the science of living.

Dramatics Department

Dramatics, one of the smaller departments in Rhodes, is doing a big job in pointing the adults of tomorrow towards new and exciting careers. Students learn how to give dramatic presentation with words and actions that emphasize liveliness, reality, and vivid striking meaning that will hold the audience's attention.

Harry G. Sletz

Driving Department

Automobiles have become so important to our present world that the course in driving has helped many prospective drivers become proficient on the highways and roads of our country. The driving course, which gives the student the opportunity to apply his new-found knowledge in practical experiences, assist in preparing intelligent drivers who enhance the safety of our city.

Constance M. Burton

Robert K. Sifritt
Department Head

Social Studies Department

Social Studies succeeds in presenting an appreciation of ancient and modern culture to the future voters of America. The courses of World History, American History and Government, Geography, and Modern Problems promote a better understanding of the world's troubles as well as local and national issues. Thus, the student builds useful background by learning the story of mankind down to present day events.

Art Department

Art at Rhodes has many varied facets, and self-expression seems to be the key word to each one. Students are able to display their talents in such media as water-color, crayon, oil, and pencil to name just a few. Also, pupils may apply their art skills in handicrafts such as ceramics, leather, and metal. The future artists are constantly working for prizes, and the exhibits that are created certainly attribute honors to the Art Department and the school.

Language Department

Aduite, Bonjour, and Guten Tag are all ways of bestowing friendly greetings. Making conversation such as this in another language is great fun, as many of our Rhodes students have found out by following the classes in Latin, French, and German.

Besides forming a strong preparation for those who wish to enter college; a foreign language gives pupils appreciation of the literature and customs of other countries. We see the beauty of a foreign land through speaking the language correctly, seeing films, having class discussion, reading books, and getting as close to the subject as possible.

With the United States in the vital position it is in today, the study of languages cannot be stressed enough. In what other means can we understand the people of the world if we cannot communicate with them in their own tongue?

Home Economics Department

Home Economics is the approach to a future happy living. The well-equipped facilities of the kitchen and sewing rooms at Rhodes provide just that training. Here preparation is given for the most important of all careers—that of homemaking. Girls are given the chance to exercise their common sense and artistic ability through courses such as cooking, sewing, tearoom, consumer education, and personal regimen. Boys even get into the act by participating in the chef courses.

Physical Education Department

Not only sound minds, but sound bodies prepare us for our future life. The Physical Education department through its programs of interscholastic and intramural sports, has made it possible for us to become strong citizens, better able to proceed into the world with the assurance that we can overcome whatever lies ahead.

Commercial Department

All Rhodians cannot help but notice the interesting, clicking sounds that pour out of the doors of the business classes. These noises indicate that many young people are developing their skill in typing and various business machines. Stenography and bookkeeping are also tackled with much enthusiasm by the students who are working for greater accomplishments and awards. Success in the business world is the goal of the Commercial Department, and certainly many opportunities for excellence are afforded by the fine training in this section of education.

Industrial Arts Department

The always active Industrial Arts classes serves as a key to the future careers of many students. The courses offer valuable background for trades, and encourage the pupils to use initiative and tools in creating the products of everyday living. The students learn by doing, and soon find themselves developing many practical skills that will indeed be beneficial throughout their lives.

Classes in metal, printing, wood, mechanical drawing, and stagecraft are available to all who wish to advance themselves in this excellent field of busy production.

MR. TEMPLIN

Dear Mr. Templin,

We thank you sincerely for the endless patience you have shown in putting up with our last-minute sprees, crazy ideas, and precarious financial status. Your cool-calm-and-collected attitude, your sly sense of humor, and your West Virginia drawl have made you loads of fun and a real help in getting us out of tight squeezes! We thank you very much for all your kindness, and leave with you our fondest wish—that the next 12A class won't cause you one half the trouble we did!

Sincerely,

OUR CLASS HISTORY 1955-1959

Blast Off!—First Stage

With the recent advances in rockets we can truly say that the missile age is upon us. In the near future scientists intend to send man far out into space. To do this they need powerful multi-staged vehicles.

One of these four-staged rockets is representative of our class—each stage depicting one of our four years at Rhodes. The rocket is readied for launching at the end of junior high, and is fueled with students equipped with high potential.

The count down begins in our first day at Rhodes; four three, two, one, blast off! The first and largest stage has ignited and we are now entering James Ford Rhodes on our way to the moon. That first day was one that we will remember all our lives.

As we entered the seemingly foreboding building we stumbled across a sign with an arrow and the word "auditorium" written on it. Being inquisitive little souls, we anxiously followed the arrow, only to find ourselves in the girls' gym, where we quickly did an about-face. We then asked someone for directions to the auditorium. Informing us that the only way there was by elevator, our amiable friend began selling us elevator passes. After mulling around for another fifteen minutes, we finally arrived at the auditorium where we found ourselves part of a crowd of 313 new freshmen.

A distinguished-looking man got up on the stage and quieted us. Introducing himself as Mr. Ferguson, he then introduced us to our principal, Mr. Mathews. We were soon divided alphabetically and sent to our homerooms.

In our first year we stumbled through courses like algebra and world history. A few brave souls chanced a foreign language. By the time our second semester arrived we were fairly well accustomed to our new school. In fact, we felt so well oriented we started giving the new 9B's directions!

Second Stage

With the first stage of our rocket floating behind us in space, we fired the second stage and continued on our journey through the tenth grade. This is the year that we began cracking our shy little freshman shells and participating in various—I guess they call them "extra-circular" activities. That's a fancy way of saying sports, special interest clubs, and musical organizations.

However, we still had those boring classes to visit every day. Here is where we started taking math and science courses which "would prepare you for the coming Space Age." In the field of science, biology was our first obstacle. We even attempted some pleasant experiments like dissecting worms.

Geometry was the tenth grade math course, and by the end of the year some of us were so confused we didn't know one circle from another. Poetry was the thing of the day as Mrs. Sancetta helped us observe National Poetry Week—every day!

This year brought some additions to our class from Wilbur Wright Junior High, and Miss Palmer joined the faculty as Dean of Girls. I'm sure we'll all remember the discovery of the Salk vaccine which made it necessary for us to line up in the boy's gym like animals led to slaughter.

"Six weeks and the cabin" sound like a familiar saying to some boys who started pledging for the Hi-Y clubs. The girls were getting into the act too, by joining the Y-Teens. They will all surely remember "Snow Ball", the first Christmas Formal.

Third Stage

We embarked on the third stage of our rocket under the first class president, Tom Sernka. Other class officers were Linda Mielke, Sue Werle, Neil Steinhoff, and Gayle Sabat.

Remember all the fun we had during the third stage of our high school education? No one will forget our first class informal, "Sea Fantasy", or our first class picnic.

Yes, our junior year was one filled with new experiences. Many of them were delightful, such as the drama class's production of "Lilliom", with Andy Ladygo and Sandy Hunter in supporting roles.

Many events were sad, especially the leaving of two of our favorites, Miss Cherrington, honors English teacher, and Mr. Rockwood, teacher of solid and trig.

In the 11A semester we saw Mr. Blum replace Mr. Gaisor as Dean of Boys, and 11 members of our class inducted into National Honor Society. These hard working eleven were Dennis Duffala, Donna Friedl, Kathy Gaisor, Karen Kerr, Mary Ann Knight, Linda Mielke, Carol Pellingner, Thomas Sernka, Eustace Theodore, Fred Weinhardt, and Susan Werle.

During the football season our cheerleaders, Susie Fien, Viv Klementis, Gail Pinch and Rosemary Rice boosted our team as they came upon the old obstacle (Ignatius) in their bid for a chance to play in the Charity Game.

Our track team had an extremely successful season. They won the Subway Meet, the Arena Meet, the John Adams Relays and the District Meet.

Fourth Stage

Finally we came to the zenith of our rocket trip through James Ford Rhodes High School. We started this semester with a "bang" by electing Bob Demchik, president; John McElwaine, vice-president; Sue Werle, secretary; Richard Confer, treasurer; and Rosemary Rice, social chairman.

Many of our fellow classmates were leaders in clubs: Dennis Duffala was elected president of National Honor Society, Tom Sernka, president of Student Council; Liega Liepens, president of Senior Y-Teens; while Karen Brown was president of Girls Glee Club.

We had a large group interested in music; Barbara Lockyer, Bonnie McMullen, Karen Brown, Shirley Super, and Viv Klementis made Triple Trio; while Jim Shirak, John McElwaine, Dan Pangrace and Neil Steinhoff were members of Boys' Octet. Many more were members of Senior Choir and Glee Clubs. Our class was well represented in orchestra and band, some of the long-standing members being Karen Yager, Janet Huger, Edith Kersten, Neil Steinhoff, Dennis Duffala, Keith Nyland, Dick Panek, Don Panek, Ron Kessler, Ray Petznick, Steve Dzurik and Steve Kulak.

An earnest journalistic group worked on the Rhodes Review. The Editor-in-Chief was Nancy Cooke, Sports Editor was Larry Luta, and some of the co-workers were Marilyn Wallis, Donna Amoroso, Barbara Abelt, Donna Friedl, and Roger Raba.

For fourteen of our classmates, the thrilling moment came when they heard their names called at National Honor Society induction: Mary Lou Ahrendt, Leo Aukerman, Noreen Benditz, Nancy Cooke, Susan Fien, Cathy Heiser, Janet Hunter, Liega Liepens, Larry Luta, John McElwaine, John Pelletti, Barbara Soldat, Nancy Wagner, and Albert Wollmann.

All too soon the Christmas season came, bringing with it the annual Christmas Concert and Formal. On December 20, many senior girls attended their last Y-Teen Christmas Formal, "Snowfall Serenade", where a queen and two attendants were chosen. Virginia Taylor was selected as queen; Sue Schwede and Nancy Cooke were attendants.

We began our 12A semester by choosing Andy Ladygo, president; Bob Demchik, vice-president; Sue Werle, secretary; and Ray Sasarak, treasurer. Donna Friedl and Nancy Cooke were appointed social chairman and yearbook editor, respectively.

"Pink Champagne" with its red, pink and white decor was the scene of our last informal. Other special activities included a class banquet and variety show, Class Day, our Prom, and the final National Honor Society induction where Martin Amos, Richard Confer, Erica Jordan, Vivian Klementis, Marilyn Melcher, Keith Nyland, Donald Panek, Richard Panek, Gayle Sabat, Neil Steinhoff, Elisabeth Strong, and Sandy Yendrick were selected for membership in this organization. The climax of our days at Rhodes came at commencement on June 16 where the theme "Atomic Energy" was carried out by our classmates.

These treasured recollections of our dear old Alma Mater, James Ford Rhodes, we recall with nostalgia, remembering the fun, frivolity, friendships and fundamentals established here.

THE LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

We, the June class of James Ford Rhodes in the year of our Lord 1959, being of nearly sound and disposing mind and memory, and not acting under duress, menace, fraud, or under influence of any teacher whomsoever, do make, publish, and declare this our last will and testament.

SECTION I

We leave our morals to the judgment of Miss Palmer.

We leave to next years 12A's our recent publication, "How to Get Along with Authorities".

We leave next year's rally worries to Mr. Henderson.

We leave Mr. Hoffman a textbook on harem maintenance.

We leave Mr. Vecchio an automatic printing teacher.

We leave Mr. Pompeani a spelling book.

We leave Mr. Seginac a dolichosephalic drasophala malanagaster.

We leave five pounds of chewing tobacco to Mr. Templin, provided he doesn't put it all in his mouth at once.

We leave a year's supply of German pills to Mr. Levine.

We leave Mr. Roberts to his financial worries.

We leave Mr. Jacob a "tremenjous" modern problems assignment : prove the earth is banana shaped.

We leave Mrs. Ayres the Roman Empire.

We leave the questions in personal reg to Mr. McCullough.

We leave Mr. Hicks his lengthy jokes.

We leave Kathryn Gasior to Mr. Blum.

We leave Mr. Sovey the boys who "pot around".

We leave Mr. Stevens a basketball uniform.

We leave Mr. Merriman a water still.

We leave Mr. Ferguson a new home-room.

We leave Mr. Schmidt a pile of worn-out band uniforms.

We leave Mr. Sifritt to his azimuthal projections.

SECTION II

I, Dennis Duffala, leave my many-convoluted brain to the science department.

I, Bob Demchik, leave my appendix to Shondor Yendrick.

I, Neil Steinhoff, add a new verb to the English language.

I, Richard Kowalchik, leave my tyrannical ideas to Bruce Beebe.

We, Allene Chadwick and Pat Keyes, leave Mr. Hoffman.

I, Richard Confer, leave my lab apron to the Salvation Army.

We, Mary Lou Ahrendt and Erika Jordan, leave our knowledge of nice German boys to anyone who is interested.

We, Judy Rahlfs and Mary Lou Riemer, leave our admiration to Miss Thieme.

I, Roger Kaltenbach, leave my vocabulary to a certain German teacher.

I, Jay Buesch, leave the girls in Senior Choir.

I, Ken Geniusz, don't leave Carolyn Korb.

I, Andy Ladygo, leave Mr. Folkman.

I, Nancy Cooke, leave the printer's phone number and the Rhodes Review to Harriette Drake.

I, "Mish Heiser", leave Mr. Henderson.

I, Larry Luta, leave my journalistic ability to future sports editors.

I, Al Wollman, leave my anchor-building ability to the Navy.

I, Ron Olbrysh, leave my funny valentines to the faculty.

I, Janet Huges, leave my love of jazz to the music department.

I, Roger Raba, leave the librarians.

I, Sue Werle, leave the Student Council worries to Mr. Skipper.

I, Chris Kazan, leave my loquacity to David Eisenman.

I, Barbara Schultz, leave my mighty voice to Don Kubit.

SECTION III

I, Janet Zutz, leave my homeroom responsibilities.

I, Karen Kerr, leave the memory of my Impala to all who have seen it.

I, Theresa Ormandy, leave my famous "relative" to the music department.

I, Harriet McMichael, leave my knowledge of Gaelic to the Chess Club.

We, Karen Yager and Daren Pawuk, leave our instruments to Mr. Schmidt.

We, the Paneks, leave you confused.

I, Ray Petznick, leave my size to Dave Wadelin.

We, Tom Griesmer and Bob Way, leave our answers in chemistry to Mr. Henderson.

I, George Fedynsky, leave my photography to Miss Kenyon.

I, Judy Lewis, leave my friend "Mickey".

I, Lester Ruszkowski, leave my jokes to whomever has nerve enough to listen.

I, Susie Fien, leave my squeaky voice to anonymouse.

I, John Pelletti, leave my questions in modern problems to Mr. Jacob.

I, Myron Kushner, leave my vaccination to medical history.

I, Donna Atol, leave chemistry, gladly.

I, Keith Nyland, leave my reading ability to the English department.

I, Rosemary Rice, leave my cheerleader's uniform to Judi Bayer.

I, Donna Friedl, leave a sommersault to the athletic department.

I, Eustace Theodore, leave my stern convictions to the Foreign Affairs Club.

I, Dyanne Glass, leave my love of cafeteria food to the 9B's.

I, John McElwaine, leave my score in the "barb" department to my apprentice, Don Duffala.

We, Libby Strong and Marilyn Wallis, leave the Y-Teens.

I, Martin Amos, leave my emperorship to the Latin Club.

I, Sandy Hunter, leave my acting ability to the dramatics department.

I, Gerry Malumphy, leave my admiration for Mr. Roberts.

SECTION IV

Our class leaves to posterity these immortal words:

Ron Olbrysh, after giving a book report in English, "After reading this book, I don't see how it got in the library."

Mr. Hoffman: "If you don't get it this semester, you'll get it next semester."

Gail Pinch, at a track meet, "Harrison Dillard? Does he go to Rhodes?"

Mr. Rockwood, addressing his solid class, "Gentlemen and Mr. Steinhoff."

Janet Huges, attempting an especially difficult chemical formula, "Mr. Henderson, how do you ever make all these formulas up?"

Ladies, Gentlemen, the Freshmen:

To you we leave the space we vacate in the halls.

Signed on this 16th day of June,

The June Class of 1959

PROPHECY 1964

With Apologies to George Orwell

Striped sunshine came seeping through the bars of the political unorthodox prison (Thoughtpen) of Benedict Arnold University. Inside the Thoughtpen, political inquisitors CLARINDA KONZEN, GARY LORENZ, and GAYLE ROBISON visited the reorientation wards. According to Chief Attendants SANDY YENDRICK and WILLIAM SMITH, the Thoughtpen wasn't a jail in the ordinary sense, but was used to rehabilitate the minds of individuals who persisted in political heresies.

Perhaps the reader may wonder that a prison was in juxtaposition to a university campus, let alone an integral part of one. Especially scandalous was the fact that BAU's Thoughtpen wasn't employed for the correction of normal misdemeanors and felonies, but was used to purge the university of nonconformist thoughts and ideas. In 1964, this prison, and, even more so, what it represented, incited a glorious revolution that rocked the academic world to its very foundations.

In any revolution, two diametrical forces in mortal opposition to each other are necessary: no revolution is possible if there is only one system of thought controlling the minds of men. At BAU in 1934, goodthinkers were opposed by the radical crimethinkers.

BAU's illustrious faculty and a segment of the student body typified "goodthinking," or unquestioning obedience to and acceptance of the polit-socio-economic views of the University Administrative Office. Symbolic of the goodthinkers were staid officers of instruction like ETHEL HESS, JUDY LEWIS, RICHARD NEUMANN, and KATHRYN RYAN of the Political Science Department; BARBARA LOCKYER, PAULINE MOSTS, MARY LOU RIEMER, and HENRY YISHA of the Sociology Department; and JAY BUESCH, ALLENE CHADWICK, GERALDINE MALUMPHY, and DAVID WADELIN of the Economic Department.

Contrariwise, the majority of the university's student body denoted "crimethinking," the act of thinking or believing unorthodox, and therefore criminal, thoughts. Representative crimethinkers were BARBARA ABELT, VIRGINIA ZATES, KAREN KLAISNER, GLORIA DOBOLEK, JAMES STANDAFER, RON OLBRYSH, and KEN HANSON. The crimethinkers, according to the latest Gallop Poll figures, heavily outnumbered the goodthinkers. Thus it was impossible to segregate the crimethinkers in the Thoughtpen. More than three-fourths of the student body would be under lock and key! However, it was possible and desirable to conduct periodic purges, during which the more outspoken crimethinkers were committed to the Thoughtpen, where they were reoriented before their release and subsequent expulsion from the University itself.

For many years, goodthinkers, who also ran the University during their spare time, wielded unlimited power, or so they themselves believed. Confident and oversecure, they never suspected that organized anarchists under FRED WEINHARDT, MARY ANN STANCZYC, and LARRY LUTA were plotting the downfall of their diabolical, autocratic regime!

On the fateful day of March 32, 1964, Benedict Arnold began "just another day" which, by that evening, would prove to be the most uproarious, riotous day in its otherwise placid history.

Like the American forces on December 7, 1941, the goodthinkers were totally unaware that anything was amiss.

English majors ROSEMARY HAZUCHA, SANDY BABIOLIS, CYNTHIA PRELL, and JIM AMBROSE were studiously scrutinizing the latest literary triumph from the collective pen of BEVERLY GULLIFER and BOB RHODE: "The Lyrical Rhapsodists of Brecksville Are Utopianizing in a Didactic Nihilism."

In the Linguistics Building, LESTER RUSZKOWSKI, BEVERLY BICKERTON, and JANET KERSTEN were list-

lessly attempting the imperfect accusative present progressive subjunctive of the Sanskrit preposition "frmt" (employed only after transitive adjectives used as the subjects of interjections). And in the neighboring Navigation Building, JANET HUGE, EDITH KERTEN, GEORGE POLANSKY, and MARILYN MELCHER were finding out what time it was in Vladimir-Volhynskiy, US SR (51° North Latitude), when it was 7:39 AM Friday evening in Totonicapam, Guatemala (15° 9' North Latitude). In another classroom of the same building, SUE SCHWEDE, PATRICIA WELSH, and DAN PANGRACE were drawing concentric great circles on an azimuthal projection of the Cleveland Metropolitan Park System which NANCY JOHNSON and SHIRLEY SUPER had made during Cartography Week.

The various laboratories in the Science Center were unduly animated that fateful morning. In the chemistry lab, DICK and DON PANEK and GARY RADEMAKER of the Organic Chemistry Department were busy destructively distilling a few of their more inexorable students, while JANET ZUTZ and MIKE OKER were oxidizing their textbooks. Trying to fractionally distill a mixture of  $\text{CH}_3\text{OH}$ , and  $\text{C}_2\text{H}_5\text{OH}$  (denatured alcohol) for obvious reasons, GEORGE FEDYNSKY, HARRIET BRODERICK, and GAIL NEITZEL discovered that benadryl, the dimethylaminoethyl ether hydrochloride of benzhydrol,  $(\text{C}_6\text{H}_5)_2\text{CHOCH}_2\text{CH}_2\text{N}(\text{CH}_3)_2\text{HCl}$ , was a proved cure for iron deficiency anemia (tired blood). In the biology lab, an omen of what was to come prematurely occurred when NOREEN BENDITZ, SHARON BUTLER, LILLIAN NOTARIANNI, and JUDY REIFF tried to embalm their austere professor, RICHARD ZAKEL, in formalin (a 40% solution of formaldehyde,  $\text{HCHO}$ , in water,  $\text{H}_2\text{O}$ ). Physicists HARRY HINZ, DON BIRKIMER, and CHRISTINE KAZAN were measuring the force of impact of falling bodies on the heads of passers-by in the streets below.

Math majors were at work, laboring to create a system of mathematical thought applicable to the modern world. RUTH KUMEROW and RICHARD KOWALCHIK had already constructed a four-sided isosceles triangle, while ELEANOR MIKUS and BILL SANDY were striving to factor the quantity  $(x+1)$ . True to the precepts of Ingsoc (and to the eternal emulation of Big Brother), BOB DEMCHIK, CAROL KAUFFMAN, and DYANNE GLASS has satisfactorily proved beyond doubt that  $2+2=5!$

In the Gym, the students trounced the faculty, 19-18, in the All-Star Volleyball Game. Trailing from the start, the students came up from behind late in the third quarter as AL HESS scored a touchdown minutes after DENNIS BOYKO'S home run during the half-time show.

In the Home Economics Building, MAUREEN DOWNES, MARY LOU AHRENDT, RUTHANN KOSIBA, and BARBARA SCHROEDER were whipping up a batch of martini pizzas to replace the ones that had walked away during the night.

Economist RICHARD NUGENT was trying to prove to his class that money wasn't everything. (Of course, he admitted, it was quite a distance ahead of whatever was in second place.)

Shakespeare devotees ADELE FORSTER, DONNA AMOROSO, MYRON KUSHNER, BOB CIFRANIC, and VIRGINIA TAYLOR were busily drawing up a petition against ROBERT DORKSEN of the Psychology Faculty, who had suggested that

"To be or not to be; that is the question." should be modernized to read

"To exist as a functioning social organism

"Or not to exist as a functioning social organism;

"To continue extrinsically didactic

"Or not to continue extrinsically didactic;

"In short, to remain integrated or to become disintegrated:

"That is the preponderant cultural conflict . . . ."

This is a sampling of the goodthinking in progress March 32, 1964. Goodthinkers were in control, as they had been on March 31, March 30, March 29 . . . back to April 1, 1776, when the University was founded by Ezra Edmond Benedict and Hezekiah Isaiah Arnold who wished "to stablish in these colonies a schoole of learneing where younge gentlemen of qualitie and honour coulde learne Latin, rhetoric, philosophie, mathematicks, natural philosophie, and musicke." Since the days of its humble beginnings, Benedict Arnold University had risen to the acme of the educational world, and was the most pretigious institution of higher learning in the world by 1900, the year it became the first co-ed university in the Poison Ivy League.

Existing in the midst of mental incertitude and abject dogmaticism, the goodthinkers were, like Sinclair Lewis' "men of measured merriment," content to the point of servile resignation. Collective solipsists, they honestly believed that nothing existed outside their collective minds as defined by those at the top. They believed they had crushed crime-thinking by force; they had actually helped it to grow and gain momentum.

The downfall of the goodthinkers lay in their practice of "doublethink," the ability to believe in two opposing thoughts or ideas at the same time. Doublethink was disparagingly described as progressive stupidity, but it allowed its adherents to believe untruths to be true while knowing the untruths to be false. Doublethink was the ability to believe that  $2+2=4$ .

In their headquarters in the Student Cafeteria, crimethinkers like MARY ANN KNIGHT, MARTIN AMOS, ALAN KAUTZ, LIEGA LIEPINS, GERALD APEL, and JUDY MARTIN plotted the downfall of the power regime. Incidentally, the Student Cafeteria wasn't used for anything BUT the headquarters of political anarchists ever since state health officials JUDY LEONHARDT, DAVID WIENCEK, and BARBARA SOLDAT quarantined the kitchen soon after the Treaty of Versailles was ratified. It wasn't that the University Kitchens weren't clean; it seems that . . . doubts

. . . were raised when NANCY WAGNER, MARIANNE MADACHIK, and LOIS ZIDEK discovered that the cafeteria bacteria count was 900,000 units above the plague level of 17 units.

The anarchists had several objectives: the capture of the Music Building, the destruction of the Thoughtpen, the seizure of the Administrative Offices, and the confiscation of the Communications Center. The nihilists were positive of fraternity and sorority support; the Alpha, Beta, Gamma, and Delta fraternities, and the Lambda, Kappa, Omicron, and Omega sororities had pledged their support of any activity which would allow them to operate legitimately once again. The fraternities and sororities had been banned in 1842, and had been meeting in secret for the past 122 years.

An uproar from the Music Building indicated that the rebellion had begun. The choir room was easily taken as gum-chewing choristers led by RAY PFAHL, SUE WERLE, SANDRA MARRIOTT, and LEONARD BOBULA locked "Kapellmeister" RONALD KESSLER inside the piano. The band room proved a more difficult objective as "Maestro" ALBERT WOLLMANN barricaded himself in the instrument room at the first sign of danger. Alpha reinforcements under JOHN McELWAINE came charging in the room, singing "Dartmouth's in Town Tonight" in ten-part harmony, a most noteworthy achievement, as there were only seven men in the detachment. KEITH NYLAND simulated a latter-day Zorro as he charged about the room, armed to the teeth with a dilapidated, balding violin bow. With a shriek of dramatic ecstasy, CATHY HEISER, SANDRA BERNARD, FAITH MEHLE, and KATHLEEN ROGALSKI succeeded in forcing the door of the instrument room, and the director was uncerimoniously turned over to ROBERT FOOSE, JIM REEVE, FRED DORN, and ED BILY, who marched him to the Cafeteria, a part of which was used as a temporary prison for the goodthinkers who had been and would be captured during the revolt. Confusion in the band room mounted, and a crimethinker accidentally started attacking his own forces. In the ensuing affray, DENNIS DUFFALA tried to save his lunch by ducking out onto the ledge on the north side of the building. Unfortunately, there is no ledge on the north side of the building. Oh well.

Assured that the Music Building was safely in crimethinker control, the anarchists moved upon the Millard Mugwump Memorial Library, depository of two million books, ninety billion comic books, and eighty centillion Mad magazines. Parenthetically, the Millard Mugwump Memorial Library was obviously the best equipped library in the universe, and its reference material, predominantly that under the latter two classifications, was unsurpassed. PAUL LANDOLFO, MIKE FORNARO, MARGARET BAKER, DAREEN PAWUK, and DONNA ATOL were to attack from the front of the building, while GEORGIA BENDER, BETTY PRAY, RAY KURKA, and SHIRLEE COHARA were to cover the rear. But the crimethinkers were foiled on both counts, for librarians HARRIETTE McMICHAEL, ELAINE BOLZ, JANET HUNTER, and ATHENA ZENALLIS had heard rumors of the pending revolution, and, like practiced doublethinkers, had poured barrels of library paste around the front and rear entrances in anticipation of the invasion, but had failed to notify any other goodthinkers of the coming disaster. The Library had saved itself, to be sure, but doublethink had worked against it, and had immeasurably helped the opposition in the process.

Moving along the campus, their forces beginning to show the losses incurred at the Library, the crimethinkers descended upon a block of dormitories. A platoon of Lambda Sorority girls under THERESA, ORMANDY, JUDY RAHLFS, KATHRYN GASIOR, MARY ANN CHENGERY, and CAROLYN MACK battered their way into the neutralist Ferdinand Frumshaw Men's Dorm, and a combat squad led by DELENE HORNAK, MARILYN FIEDLER, LILLIAN RAK, and SYLVIA TANNER paraded through the halls singing Revolutionary War fight songs, while the disorganized inhabitants of the ravaged dorm cowered in the locker room, awaiting reinforcements that never came. Radical cheerleaders SUZY FIEN, VIV KLEMENTIS, GAIL PINCH, ROSEMARY RICE, and JIM MOTZ gave an impromptu stomp cheer from the roof of the captured building as the crowds below yelled "Heave the confetti; cheer for PELLETTI," while demonstrating for their favorite polo player, who had just eloped with NANCY RITCHIE on his berrylium-orange palimino.

The goodthinkers were finally shaken out of their lethargy as the strains of the cheers outside Frumshaw floated across the campus. In their plush office with its wall-to-ceiling carpeting and its stereo hi-fi monitor telescreens that could spy upon any part of the campus, University President TOM SERNKA, Dean of Men NANCY COOKE, and Dean of Women NEIL STEINHOFF held a feverish council of war. They agreed that something had to be done; just what it was, they weren't quite sure. They decided to push the PANIC buttons, and sirens began wailing and shrieking as loudspeakers and telescreens throughout the campus began bellowing orders and commands originating in the Thought Police Headquarters in the Communications Center. Had the goodthinkers' counter-activity begun two hours earlier than it did, the rebellion would have been irrevocably suppressed. As it was, the nihilists had gained enough time by their surprise attack on the Music Building to ultimately win the revolt.

ROMAN PANKIW, RONALD ANTONIK, FRED WAGNER, JERRY JANUSEK, and RICHARD CONFER of the Thought Police Riot Squad were totally unprepared for the mobs of students they encountered. The Riot Squad hadn't been called into action since 1789, when a group of obstinate Nationalists demonstrated against the pending ratification of the United States Constitution.

In the Psychology Building, Kappa Sorority girls under MARILYN BRADLEY, KAREN KERR, and KAREN ESTEBO unsuccessfully tried to convert defectors from the Laude Society battalion back to the cause by subliminal projection.

Volleyes of shots were exchanged by warring factions as a squad of Beta Fraternity men led by AL LAKIS, LEO AUKERMAN, CRAIG REIMER, and STEVE DZURIK dragged the cannon from the quadrangle to a small hill overlooking the Thoughtpen. Lacking regulation cannon-balls, the squad bombarded the prison from above with bowling balls, and when those ran out, they started using over-ripe watermelons. The bowling balls battered down the radiation-proof lead doors. Security Officers RONALD DEATHERAGE, RUSSELL TURK, ROGER KALTENBACH, ROBERT GEDEON, and JOHN MARTIN, trying to escape with the security files, became hopelessly bogged down as they tried to wade through the sea of splattered melons. The Thoughtpen was taken, and the political prisoners were given their freedom. On an exploration trip within the cavernous dungeons of the prison, RAY PETZNICK, JUDY BRINKMAN, BONNIE McMULLEN, ANDY VISTUCIS and LIBBY STRONG stumbled upon the Telecenter. Telescreens were in every room and building on the campus, but everyone had thought that they were capable only of ordinary communications like the obsolescent telephones once were. With a wild yell, DIANE PETROVICH, ROBERT FREITAG, and BARBARA SCHULTZ realized that the telescreens could be and were used by the Thought Police to unobservedly spy on anyone or anything they wished. The only reason the Thought Police never discovered the rebellion before it erupted into open violence was that telescreens were never installed in the defunct Student Cafeteria.

Commandeering a demolition crane from the Geology Department, JAMES FUERHOFF, DAVID MARSZALEK, and RON GARTMAN of the Gammas raced it to the Administration Offices Building. Inside the building, office clerks PHYLIS HENSLEY, KAREN BROWN, and LINDA MIELKE were already heaping money from the safe into antique carpet-bags. The President and the two Deans had long since entered the escape tunnel through the secret exit, and had forever sealed off the tunnel entrance behind them with a small atomic blast. The tunnel, which ran two hundred feet below the campus streets, ended a mile south of the campus on a bank of the Arnold River.

A crowd of goodthinkers returning from their orientation class (which most crimethinkers managed to cut) were met by JUDY RATH, CAROLE CROFT, and JOAN KITKO behind the polo grounds. The goodthinkers began shouting lascivious comments at the nihilists when KEN GENIUSZ and GEORGE WALTER arrived and dispersed the crowd with CS<sub>2</sub> stench bombs.

In the Student Union, Omicrons MARCIA CHORBA, BEVERLY HINTZ, GAYLE SABAT, JEAN WIDOWSKE, and JOAN POLENSCHAT started heaving mashed potatoes and mucilage gravy at rival Omegas PATRICIA MARCINKO, PAT ESTERL, LUCY PAULO, ALICE EIZEMBER, and MAUREEN ZECHMAN. Instantly the Union was rampant with confusion as students began throwing Jungle Stew in all directions. The rioting spread to the lunch line when DONNA FRIEDL refused to accept the crawling hamburger she had just been handed. JEANNE D'AMICO stumbled, and a rancid bowl of chicken soup fell gurgling into LINDA MACKENZIE'S cash register. Sparking violently, the register began smoldering as the soup shorted out the electrical wiring, and the Union was suddenly plunged into darkness as the shorted register tripped the main circuit breakers.

Screaming like sirens of old, JOAN DOERINGER, CAROL PELLINGER, SANDRA HUNTER, BONNIE DOPSLAF, and FRANCES MARRIA began chanting "We want the jukebox! We want the jukebox!" at the top of their lungs. With a metallic screech, the emergency batteries in the jukebox cut in, and the voice of ANDY LADYGO singing "Charlie Brown" howled across the Union, which was knee-deep in noodle soup, milk bottles, and soda straw wrappers.

Back at the Administrative Offices Building, the battering crane had done a thorough job of demolishing the building's perimeter defences, and advance task forces under BOB WAY, BOB GOSZKA, NORMAN ROMANSKI, and RONALD LENARTH were moving forward on the main entrances. Leading Dumbo, the elephantine school mascot, TOM GRIESMER, DON POGOZELSKI, and JOE BASISTA began shoving him toward the monstrous front doors, and the elephant started to shatter the almost-impregnable entrance. With a metallic cry of pain, the titanium-vanadium alloy doors splintered, and the crimethinkers rushed exultantly in. Armed with bludgeons, CHESTER KRZEMINSKI, ROBERT RAFALKE, DONALD WHITNER, and ROBERT LANG crashed into the Administrative Warning Center and smashed the warning equipment to bits. The Administrative Offices Building had fallen!! Only the Communications Center was left to be taken.

Waving scarlet banners and singing the Soviet Union National Anthem, seniors following ROSEMARIE MALINA, PATRICIA KEYES, MARY GRAMM, ERIKA JORDAN, and JANE NEBESAR began the march to the Communications Center, the student's final objective. With the Center under anarchist control, the revolution at Benedict Arnold University would be complete.

As the main batallion moved toward the Center, JUDY HALFHILL, ROSE LASHER, KAREN YAGER, and KENNETH BOOLISH raced to the Power Center, and cut the electric current to the Communications Center. Instantly the electrified barricade fences around the Communications Center were rendered harmless, and the students surged forward across the barriers without danger.

BENEDICT RZEPKA, STEVE KULAK, JANICE MALLORY, and JEAN SANDRO started heaving stench bombs through the windows of the Center.

Armed with battleaxes, ROGER RABA, PAUL STANDAFER, and RAY PACIOREK hacked away at the radio mast, and the towering antenna slowly toppled to the ground. Suddenly sirens began wailing again, and loudspeakers started howling as water from the fire-hose brigade of DONALD TIBBITTS, JUDY KONTRA, MARY SANTORE, and STEVE SYKORA flooded the control room, activating the emergency power supply, and bridging the siren and loudspeaker systems. Unexpectedly the strains of "Charlie Brown" came blaring over the speakers as the Union jukebox mysteriously tied into the Center broadcasting system. Then the whole system went silent as the students reached the control room. The silence that enveloped the campus was more overpowering than the pandemonium that had preceded it. The Communications Center was in student hands. The revolution at Benedict Arnold University was, from the standpoint of active combat, over. The crimethinkers had ultimately won over the goodthinkers after all. But now a change in terminology was in order. Crimethinkers were now the goodthinkers, for they controlled the University; goodthinkers were now the crimethinkers. Intellectual freedom had triumphed over mental tyranny.

Under the terms of surrender drawn up by GERALDINE LENTZ, DARLEEN SCHWARK, and KENNETH THIERY, and signed by ELIZABETH SWASEY, ANNETTE LISCO, and RAY SASARAK for the students, and DANIEL SEDIO, BEVERLY PETO, and WAYNE SCHLEGEL for the University, the Thoughtpen was abolished forever. Student Council President TOM WASHBURN took over as acting University President. By popular demand, and at the insistence of LOUISE MIKULA, BETTY SARIDAKIS, and VIRGINIA SZUBA, going steady was reinstated on campus after being banned for eighty-seven years.

The jubilant crowds milling about the quad yelled their approval as EUSTACE THEODORE climbed the memorial flagpole and, tearing down the University's black and blue tricolor, replaced it with the new chartreuse, orange, and purple students' flag. On the football field, JIM SHIRAK and MARILYN WALLIS lit the Spanish War Memorial cannon, and a thundering 101-gun salute boomed and reverberated across the campus as the crimson sun lowered itself in the darkening western sky.

The Glorious Revolution of 1964 at Benedict Arnold University was finished.

PROPHET,

Dennis Duffala
