*JAMES FORD RHODES
HIGH SCHOOL*

You helped with sales-both paper and bake,
 But credit you refused to take.
 Through the halls you hurriedly walked,
 Still you always had a minute to talk.
 Many Rhodes games you did attend,
 Rooting for our Rams right up to the end.
 Looking to help us whenever you could,
 Intelligently advising us as you felt you should.
 Nasty to us you never have been,
 Kindness you showed through thick and through thin.
 You've meant much to us during our high school years,
 Now we want to make it known, so that all the world hears:
 The graduating seniors of nineteen seventy-three think,
 That our yearbook should be dedicated to you, MR. LINK!

June 1973

Congratulations to each and every one of you. If your future is to remain as bright and as hopeful as it is today each of you must have a reasonable amount of self-reliance and be willing to accept your fair share of responsibility- and that responsibility should be to direct whatever talents and skills you possess to helping serve your fellow man. We hope that your experience at Rhodes High School has been such that you will be encouraged to dedicate yourselves to that goal.

It is our hope that your three years at James Ford Rhodes have been such that you will look back through this yearbook and withdraw fond memories.

Good luck and best wishes to each of you.

Mr. Michael Massa

The 1973 Aries staff devoted endless hours to the conception and ultimate production of this yearbook. However, a number of generous individuals volunteered their services. The time and patience of these people were essential to this yearbook... Stan's Studio, especially Lois and Mr. Ed Schultz, photographer... the entire Rhodes' office staff... Mrs. Thornburgh, our money manager... Mr. DeColibus, our neighbor across the way... Mr. Stacks, staff advisor, whose "decency" requirements guides us... Mr. Parkinson, our American Yearbook representative, whose visits were essential to our progress... representatives of organizations whose ability to identify members was fantastic. Thanks everybody!
