FOURTH SUNDAY OF LENT

THE FATHER RUNS TO HIS PRODIGAL SON

On the plains of Jericho, the Chosen People finally reach a fertile land that can produce food for them to eat. Paul extols God's goodness, for God reconciled the world through Christ. In the Gospel story of the prodigal son, the father is so overjoyed at his wayward son's return that he throws a huge feast, serving the choicest food and insisting his son wear the household's finest clothes. From beginning to end, we can, as we sing in the responsorial psalm, "Taste and see the goodness of the Lord."

Did you know that Catholics can make an Act of Spiritual Communion?

When unable to receive Holy Communion, pray the prayer below:

A Prayer for Spiritual Communion
My Jesus, I believe that you are present in the Most Holy Sacrament. I love you above all things and I desire to receive you in my soul. Since I cannot at this moment receive you sacramentally, Come at least spiritually into my heart. I embrace you as if you were already there and unite myself wholly to you. Never permit me to be separated from you. Amen

Stewardship Reflection

That we trust that God will provide all that we need. "No longer was there manna for the Israelites, who that year ate of the yield of the land of Canaan." - Joshua 5:12 Over the forty years that the Israelites journeyed through the desert, God provided them with manna to eat. As soon as they were able to enjoy the fruits of the Promised Land the manna ceased. Likewise, God's blessings to us may change over the years but it is important to trust that God will always provide us with all that we need.

HOLY LAND GIFTS OLIVE WOOD CARVINGS

Blessed Olive Wood Creations, a Christian group from Bethlehem in the Holy Land, will be visiting our parish on April 5th & 6th. They will speak to us about the Christian struggle in the Holy Land. They will also have some beautiful Olive Wood carvings, which are all handmade by the Christian people in Bethlehem, for sale after all the Masses. The purpose of this visit is to help maintain the existence of the catholic people in the Holy Land. Catholic Christians were once the majority in that land, but the percentage has now dropped to less than 1.3%. Please take time to look at the carvings, make a purchase, and help this church maintain a presence in the very land where our Lord was born, where He preached the Good News and where His Kingdom was first established. These carvings make great sacramental gifts that have an added special significance, given where and why they were made.

Fourth Sunday of Lent (Year C)

March 30, 2025

The story of the Prodigal Son is one of the most well-known in the New Testament. It has been sometimes called the Queen of all Parables. This Parable is only to be found in the Gospel of Luke, and it is most appropriate for us to meditate on in the middle of our Lenten journey. Lent is a time when we meditate on our Christian lives and seek forgiveness, and this wonderful story teaches us about forgiveness and reconciliation. I remember in seminary there was a detailed half-semester class just on this parable. Many of people who have heard this wonderful story have been moved to repentance, kindness, forgiveness and acceptance.

We know all its details by heart and yet when we hear it read to us, we cannot help but be deeply moved by it. The reason for this is quite simple, it is because we see ourselves as the son who went astray, and we recognize that God wants us to return home to him who is full of mercy and compassion. It is generally called the story of the Prodigal Son because the son goes off and squanders his inheritance. But it could equally be called the story of the Prodigal Father because he forgives his son unreservedly for his sinfulness and welcomes him back into the bosom of the family. It says in the text, 'While he was still a long way off, his father saw him and was moved with pity.' You can imagine then that the father often found himself gazing at the road up to the house just longing for his son's return, longing to be able to welcome him home.

The same cannot be said for the jealous brother who is angry to hear of the welcoming feast the father has arranged. He thinks that his own loyalty and faithfulness should be rewarded and the fecklessness of his brother ought to result in him being cast off. He has no love for his brother. The love the father has for his lost son can be equated with the love that God has for us when we stray from the right path. God longs for us to return to him in a spirit of repentance. God wants nothing more than to be able to extend to us his loving forgiveness. He longs to reward us for returning to him. I have been ordained for twenty years and according to me one of the servant aspects of the priesthood is to hear confessions and to administer absolution. Frequently this involves hearing penitents telling you that it has been five or ten or even twenty years since they last went to confession. Clearly during that time, they have been carrying a heavy burden and have come to the point where they can bear it no longer and so come back to God seeking his forgiveness. These are occasions of extraordinary joy for both the penitent and for the priest. One interesting little sidelight in this story of the Prodigal Son is that he ends up on a farm feeding pig. This story is being told to a group of Pharisees and according to them there is nothing lower that a man can descend to than feeding pigs because in the Mosaic Law they are regarded as unclean animals and are always to be shunned. They would regard the feeding of pigs as an act of the lowest degradation. But often in life we must reach an extremely low point before we can come to our senses.

This is often something that we can relate when dealing with alcoholism and narcotic addictions; a person suffering from addiction to alcohol often needs to end up in the gutter before they find themselves able to decisively return to a life of sobriety. This often makes it difficult for family and friends who cannot bear to see them stoop so low. Of course, if we regard the son as representing ourselves and the father standing for God then we need to ask ourselves who the other son represents. Well, clearly, he represents the Pharisees to whom this story is being told. One wonders whether they saw themselves as represented by this character. Maybe not, they are so stuck in their worldview as not to have the acumen to see themselves reflected in this most perceptive Parable. Remember, those Pharisees saw themselves as righteous; it was everyone else whom they regarded as sinners. They had the wealth and were born into a class of professional religious people who looked down on others and invented rules which were easy for them to follow but were difficult for everyone else. They do not recognize their own sinfulness and are preoccupied by showing off to others what they regard as their own perfect religious observance. We do not know how the Pharisees responded in this Parable because Luke does not record their reaction, after recounting it he moves on to some private instruction given by Jesus to his immediate disciples. We can only hope that a few of the Pharisees were unsettled by it and that it gave them cause for some self-examination. One should not suppose that the Pharisees were individually all bad but recognize that they were caught up in a privileged class system which they did not feel they could go against.

What we see here in this Parable is that God is open-minded while some of those who profess to follow him are closed-minded. God is forgiving while some religious people are unforgiving. If we genuinely want to be a disciple of Christ, then we need to imitate him in all that he does and in all that he says. What we must do is adopt the attitudes that Christ has so that we can grow more like him each day of our lives. What we need to do is to become more loving and less judgmental, we need to be more forgiving and less hard-hearted, we need to become more trusting and less selfish. The more Christlike we become then the closer to God we will be. Back on the farm the older brother carries on just as he did before; nothing changed for him. But the younger brother experiences quite a lot of change. He left home, he squandered his money, he was hungry and ended up in the worst job imaginable. But then he came to his senses, he thought things through and made the decision to return home. He then made that long and difficult journey penniless though he was. And then of course he is warmly welcomed back by his father with a banquet in his honor. All these stages imply change. And change affects a person; change changes us. And if we deal with change correctly it builds us up, gives us experience and makes us much better people on our journey of discipleship.
