Feb 3 - Feast of St. Blaise

A physician of Sebaste in Cappadocia, where he was later named Bishop, St. Blaise was martyred about the year 320. He is venerated as a patron to protect us against diseases of the throat, mainly because of the story told that he cured a boy choking from a fishbone.

We will celebrate Black History Month by wearing the designated attire on the following weekends:

FOURTH SUNDAY OF ORDINARY TIME

Zephaniah prepares us for today's Gospel, instructing us to seek justice and humility.

Paul writes that God purposely chose the weak and lowly, for Christ has become our strength and our glory. Jesus teaches the crowds the Beatitudes, telling them that it is those who are meek, merciful, and poor in spirit who are blessed. So today we sing out, "Blessed are the poor in spirit," looking to the Lord to satisfy our every need.

The National Day of Prayer for the African American and African Family, observed on Sunday, February 1, 2026, is a special occasion for reflection and unity. This year, the National Black Catholic Congress has enriched the celebration with an updated Prayer Booklet, featuring a beautiful reflection by Dr. Ansel Augustine from the USCCB's Office of African American Affairs for the Secretariat of Cultural Diversity in the Church. The Booklet is available in the lobby of the church.

ATTENDANCE

In-person Mass attendance on Saturday, January 24th was 142. The Saturday Livestream received 269 views. Due to the dangerous weather conditions, the Sunday Masses were cancelled.

Did you know that Catholics can make an Act of Spiritual Communion?

When unable to receive Holy Communion, pray the prayer below:

A Prayer for Spiritual Communion

My Jesus, I believe that you are present in the Most Holy Sacrament. I love you above all things and I desire to receive you in my soul. Since I cannot at this moment receive you sacramentally, Come at least spiritually into my heart. I embrace you as if you were already there and unite myself wholly to you. Never permit me to be separated from you. Amen

Stewardship Reflection

That others can see we live as Christians by the way we act, dress and talk. "Blessed are the poor in spirit, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven." Matthew 5:3 The phrase "poor in spirit" can be confusing. Think of it in this sense – poor in spirit means depending on God's providence and not depending on our own self-reliance. Being detached from earthly things (power, money, and comfort) and being attached to heavenly things (charity, sacrifice, and mercy). Denying ourselves from satisfying our desires and helping others obtain their basic needs.

The 55+ Club will host a Bus Trip to Delta Down in Lake Charles, LA on Saturday, February 7th. The Bus will load at 6:30am and depart from St. Francis Xavier at 7:00am. The Cost is $45.00 per person. Seats are available. Contact: Wanda Johnson @ (832) 492-5088.

IN THE ONE, WE ARE ONE

IN ILLO UNO UNUM

This Commitment Weekend, we come together as one family of faith to support the Diocesan Services Fund (DSF). Each gift joins with others to make Christ's mercy visible in our parishes, schools, and ministries. In the One, We are One, sharing His mission to bring hope, healing, and love to all who turn to the Church. May our generosity this weekend be a true witness of our unity in Christ.

Fourth Sunday of Ordinary Time (Cycle A)

Matthew's account of the Beatitudes marks the beginning of Jesus's long Sermon on the Mount. Through the Beatitudes Jesus sets out the most radical part of his Gospel. He presents to his disciples and his other listeners a vision of the world turned upside down. He presents his values as being the direct opposite of the values of this world. In the Kingdom of God, he is telling us, it is the poor, the hungry, the mourners and the persecuted who are valued while it is the rich, the satisfied, the friendly and those who are lauded that are at the bottom of the pile.

Today's gospel reading, the beatitudes, gives us an extremely focused picture of Christ. We sometimes read the beatitudes as if they were speaking about diverse kinds of people, the poor in spirit, the gentle and so on. All of these terms are several ways of describing one person, and the one person that the beatitudes portray is primarily Jesus himself.

In the beatitudes he was giving his disciples a kind of a self-portrait. Self-portraits are not always reliable. Our own description of who we are may be quite different from other people's description of us. The real truth of who we are is probably a combination of both. (mirrors do not lie)

In the case of Jesus, however, we can be sure that a self-portrait is a correct one.

He is poor in spirit, trusting in God before all else.

He is gentle, in that he is firmly committed to God's purpose, yet without any trace of arrogance.

He is the one who mourns because people are not living according to God's will.

He himself hungers and thirsts to do God's will; he is merciful to all who are broken in body and or in spirit.

He is pure in heart in that his heart is not divided but is totally given over to God's purpose.

He is the peacemaker who seeks, by his life and his death, to reconcile all people to God and to each other.

He is prepared to be persecuted in the doing of God's will and in the carrying out of God's purpose.

This portrait that Jesus gives of himself is also intended as a portrait of those who would be his disciples. It is a portrait of the person we are all called to be. Each one of the beatitudes puts before us a different side of that very complete person we are destined to become. In a sense, the beatitudes stand or fall together; we cannot take one and ignore the others, because as soon as we ignore any one of them, the others are weakened. If there is one beatitude that is more fundamental than the others it is the one that Jesus has placed first, 'Blessed are the poor in spirit; theirs is the kingdom of heaven.' The poor in spirit are those who know their need of God. They are those who recognize their dependence on God for everything that is good, who realize that, without God's help, they cannot become fully alive, fully human. We need God's grace, God's Spirit, if we are to become the person that the beatitudes are calling us to become.

When Lent begins this month on Ash Wednesday, we might take the beatitudes as our companion on our Lenten journey and keep them before our eyes as a goal as we strive for Christian identity on our journey towards Easter.

The values then of the Kingdom of God are the direct opposite of the values of this world. And with a few adjustments it is the same today as it was at the time of Christ. The values of this world are the acquisition of wealth, power, and influence. Those who are admired by society at large are those who have single-mindedly risen to the top of the social elite. Usually this has meant them having become extremely self-centered, if not utterly selfish. It has often also meant them disconnecting themselves from their families and friends in the single-minded pursuit of what they regard as excellence. Such people often become detached from ordinary life experiences and the stresses and strains of normal human relationships. They become obsessed with their own self-image and often get hooked on such things as cosmetic surgery and other treatments with the aim of presenting to the world the perfect body. The more we think about people who live their lives like this the shallower we realize that they have become. In their case image has triumphed over reality.

The deeply committed Christian cannot live like this. A dedicated follower, a disciple of Jesus realizes that there are more important things in life than celebrity and achievement. An Apostle of Jesus understands that true fulfillment is only to be found in acquiring the virtues of goodness, faith, hope, kindness, trust and so on. It is only by embracing the Christian virtues that we can ever achieve real and lasting human contentment. The disciple of Christ realizes that true achievement in life only comes about through becoming more authentically human and that the best way to do this is to embrace the values of the Gospel, Jesus teaches us in the Beatitudes.
