FOURTH SUNDAY OF LENT

Jesus Talks With Nicodemus

The readings today begin with a chronicle of the downfall of Judah, though it does have a note of hope at the end. Saint Paul teaches the Ephesians that Jesus Christ is proof positive of God's rich mercy. In the Gospel, Jesus tells Nicodemus that he will be lifted up by his Father, bringing eternal life to all who believe. God's unending love is a source of hope, mercy, and life. Let us rejoice!

Stewardship Reflection

That we may show our gratitude for Jesus' ultimate sacrifice by generously making sacrifices in our own lives. "For God so loved the world that he gave his only Son..." - John 3:16 Of all the wonderful gifts that God has given to us, the gift of His own Son is truly the greatest. How can we ever thank God for a gift like that? God does not ask us to sacrifice our own precious firstborn, but He does ask that we are grateful and generous with our God-given gifts. That we nurture and develop our gifts, and in gratitude, generously give back with increase our time in prayer, our talent in charitable works and our treasure to support the mission and ministry of our parish and greater Church.

THIS WEEKEND'S SECOND COLLECTION

This weekend, our parish will take up The Catholic Relief Services Collection. This collection supports six Catholic agencies that touch more than 100 million lives around the world. The funds from this collection help provide food to the hungry, support to displaced refugees, and Christ's love and respect to all people. Next week, please give generously and help Jesus in disguise.

Our Faith, Our Mission

God our Father,

you are the source of all goodness
and of every blessing under heaven.

We give you praise and thanks for the gift of our Catholic faith and for more than 150 years of living and witnessing to that faith in Eastern Texas.

We ask for your blessings upon our effort to help secure the future of the Church in the Archdiocese of Galveston-Houston.

May your people respond with hope
and generosity to our capital campaign,
IGNITE: Our Faith, Our Mission.

May the sacrifices we make together
today bear fruit in lives of faith
for generations to come.

We ask this through Christ Our Lord.

Did you know that Catholics can make an Act of Spiritual Communion?

When unable to receive Holy Communion, pray the prayer below:

A Prayer for Spiritual Communion
My Jesus, I believe that you are present in the Most Holy Sacrament. I love you above all things and I desire to receive you in my soul. Since I cannot at this moment receive you sacramentally, Come at least spiritually into my heart. I embrace you as if you were already there and unite myself wholly to you. Never permit me to be separated from you. Amen.

Though we constantly fail, God still faithfully loves us.

When I was growing up, we used to play with sharp knives. Our parents would ask us to put the knife away and sometimes forcefully take it from us, and we would cry. They would tell us that the knife would cut us if we did not stop playing with it. Still, we would not pay heed to our parents until we cut ourselves. Sometimes the cut was big and deep. When the blood started gushing out, we would throw the knife away and run to the very parents whose advice we had ignored. Our parents would dress the cut, calm us down and nurse our wound. This scene is depicted for our reflection this weekend. Like the Israelites, we do not listen, and we fail. However, God comforts us and reassures us of his love and care.

The Jewish historian who wrote the Book of Chronicles gives us a summary of over seven centuries of infidelities on the part of the people of God to the covenant. He gives us an insight into the history of how lax the leadership of the princes and priests were and how blatantly unfaithful they were. Despite God's on-going love, the people showed a pattern of self-destruction that made them indefensible against their enemies. They polluted the Lord's Temple in Jerusalem, worshiped idols, and were unjust to each other. No matter how many messengers God sent to make them change their ways, they charted their own course until their enemies conquered, pillaged, and sent them into exile. The people met God's merciful warnings with three repeated responses: they mocked God's messengers, they despised God's warning, and they scoffed at the prophets. Weakened by their sin, Israel became prey to their enemies who burned the house of God, tore down walls, destroyed palaces, killed many people, and sent others away into exile in Babylon. Their infidelities brought untold disaster to the nation, but God did not allow them to be destroyed totally.

The Chronicler cites many messengers God sent to Israel only to have them mistreated and their messages rejected. It was when they had suffered captivity in Babylon that Israel lamented their experience of the ultimate defeat and exile from the Babylonians (Ps. 137). This time of shame, as Chronicles shares with us, lasted for seventy (70) years.

Waves of oppressors came to rule Babylon where Israel was in exile. Each oppressor was conquered by the next, until Cyrus, the King of Persia. Cyrus held out great hope for the rebirth of Israel as a nation and the reestablishment of their way of life and worship.

St. Paul shares with us that God's mercy, His immeasurable grace, and kindness, shown to Israel even when they were in exile, is still extended to us. The efficacy of this mercy of God depends on our willingness to listen to God. This means accepting God's mercy and avoiding the mistakes the Israelites, our ancestors, made. God still speaks to us through Jesus and his followers, not about condemnation but about believing. It behooves us to have faith in the message Jesus brought and faith in him as the messenger. Paul emphasizes that this graciousness and goodness of God is extended to all believers.

To experience the gift of mercy, we are to humble ourselves and come like Nicodemus "in the middle of the night" to Jesus. This means taking practical steps to avoid the possibility of being hampered by people hostile to Jesus and his message. It is then that Jesus can explain his message in the way we can understand. His message is this: his death and resurrection are the basis of the spiritual life to be revealed by him. To Nicodemus he used an example from The Book of Numbers, where Moses raised up a serpent in the desert, to explain what he meant. He had come to save us simply because of God's great love and not that we earned or deserved it (Jn 3:16).

By Nicodemus coming to Jesus in the night, he moved from darkness to the light. He could no longer hide in darkness but experience the loved God as manifested in His Son, Jesus Christ, the light. He could now boldly go to Pontius Pilate and request the body of Jesus, and openly celebrate the Eucharist.

As we too listen to the advice of God's messengers, may we behave like Nicodemus and come from darkness into the light of Christ and recall as well as express our faith in the celebration of the Eucharist.

Archdiocese of Galveston-Houston

Chancery Office

Statement of the Archdiocese of Galveston-Houston
Response to Governor Abbott's Executive Order
March 5, 2021

Earlier this week, Governor Abbott issued an executive order to be effective March 10, 2021, allowing all Texas businesses to reopen at 100%. The order also ends the statewide mask mandate, but strongly encourages the wearing of face coverings when it is not feasible to maintain social distancing from another person not of the same household. Private businesses, including churches, are allowed the discretion to determine whether face coverings will remain mandatory.

Over the last few days, Archdiocesan officials have engaged in a series of consultations regarding the order, which included input from clergy and medical professionals. Recognizing the needs of this local Church, in particular the need to protect the most vulnerable among us, we have determined that all of our current COVID-19 protocols will remain in place until further notice, including the requirement for face coverings at Mass and other liturgical celebrations.

The Catholic Schools of the Archdiocese have implemented protocols that have proven effective in minimizing the spread of COVID-19 to its students, families, faculty and staff. Since this spring 2021 semester will soon come to a close, these protocols will also remain in place through the end of this academic year.

We are monitoring the increased level of vaccinations and the number of new COVID-19 cases and hospitalizations in our area and remain hopeful these metrics will continue to trend favorably so that the virus will soon be contained.
