

We are deeply grateful to have Pavel Goldstein as a volunteer with Boulder Housing Partners. His dedication, patience, and genuine compassion have made a meaningful and lasting impact on the lives of our senior residents.

In his role as a tech support volunteer, Pavel has gone above and beyond in assisting our seniors as they navigate the increasingly complex world of technology. Whether helping set up smartphones and tablets, or guiding residents through the use of video calling, email, and social media, Pavel has empowered our community with the skills and confidence to stay connected with loved ones and engaged with the world around them.

What truly distinguishes Pavel is not only his technical expertise, but his ability to teach with empathy and clarity. He takes the time to explain concepts thoroughly, repeats instructions patiently when needed, and celebrates each resident's progress no matter how small. His presence has significantly enhanced digital literacy within our community, while also fostering a sense of independence, connection, and joy among our seniors.

We feel incredibly fortunate to have benefited from Pavel's time, knowledge, and heartfelt commitment. His contributions have made a profound difference, and he will always be a valued and cherished member of the Boulder Housing Partners community.
