

A GUIDEBOOK TO WEIRD MONTGOMERY

Want to see some of the stranger sights in the Gump? Here is a short guide to show you the way. Best of all, most are free!

Steiner-Lobman Building Casket

Why is there a 'casket' atop the Steiner-Lobman building? No one knows. But folks are pretty sure it's empty. Probably. Free

184 Commerce St
Montgomery, AL

World's Largest Brick Made of Bricks

There are other larger bricks that are just one brick. But if you want to see a giant brick made up of lots of regularly sized bricks, then here you go. Free

Acme Brick Tile and Stone
10200 US-80, Montgomery, AL

Hank William Death Car

Want to see the car Hank Williams died in? Weird flex, but ok. You're in luck however, as the Hank Williams Museum has it as their morbid centerpiece. 12.50$

118 Commerce Street
Montgomery, AL

Hank Williams Grave

The Death Car got you jonesing for some more macabre Williams related activities? Why not go visit his astro-turf covered grave? Free

Oakwood Cemetery
829 Columbus St
Montgomery, AL

The Mooseum

We're not messing with you, that's the name. It's "the premier venue for children and adults alike to learn more about Alabama's beef cattle industry." If you are lucky the Beef Wagon will be parked outside. Free

201 South Bainbridge Street
Montgomery, AL

The Moon Tree

This loblolly pine was grown from a seed that literally circled the moon as part of an experiment in the 70's. It's found on the grounds of the Capitol building. Free

Alabama State Capitol Grounds
600 Dexter Ave.
Montgomery, AL

'Haunted' Locations and their Ghosts

Chris's Hot Dogs - ???
Huntingdon College - The Red Lady
Huntingdon College - Frank
Lucas Tavern - Eliza Lucas
Downtown - The Lady in White
Hank Williams Grave - Hank Williams
Capitol Building - The Widow
Capitol Building - The Murderer
F. Scott & Zelda Fitzgerald Museum -
Zelda Fitzgerald
Capital Towers Apartments - Fire
Victims

Learn more at hilltophowlers.org or follow us on instagram @thehilltophowlers or facebook at /thehilltophowlers

