

GUIDE TO MUSEUMS

Rosa Parks Museum

With a central focus on Rosa Parks, this museum also has a number of interactive activities. It has a wide range of artifacts tied to the Montgomery Bus Boycott, and highlights a number of the women who were instrumental to the cause, not just Rosa Parks.

The Hank Williams Museum

The highlight, morbidly, is the car in which Hank died. But it also has a host of other artifacts, including 17 stage suits, a piano, and many photos.

The Legacy Museum

Learn all about the history of slavery and racism in America in this, one of the city's premier museums. One of the newest museums, it has become one of Montgomery's largest tourist destinations, for good reason.

The Fitzgerald Museum

This museum is all things Fitzgerald, from F. Scott to Zelda. It also has two on site AirBnB's, perfect for out of town visitors. Spend the night in a museum!

The Freedom Rides Museum

With exterior and interior exhibits, this restored Greyhound Bus station details the story of the Freedom Riders. The exterior exhibits are available at all times, with a cell phone tour.

W. A. Gayle Planetarium

Located in Oak Park, this is the area's only Planetarium. See the stars in a wide variety of shows cast on it's massive dome

The Montgomery Museum of Fine Arts

Located in gorgeous Blunt Park, take some time to wander through the sculpture garden, as well as its halls of regional and worldwide art. It has a hall of very kid friendly, hands on exhibits.

The Dexter Parsonage Museum

This was the home of Dr. Martin Luther King from 1954 to 1960, this museum can currently be toured virtually.

The Mann Wildlife Learning Museum

An integral part of the Montgomery Zoo, this child centered museum hosts a number of events for all ages year round. It's stuffed (pun intended) with a wide variety of incredible taxidermied animals.

The Mooseum

If a trip to the Wildlife Museum got in hungry for a taste of more animal based museum action, roll on over to the Mooseum, and check out the kid friendly history of the beef cattle industry.

The Alabama Department of Archives and History

The second and third floors of this building are host to the Museum of Alabama. It almost covers the entirety of Alabama history, from the Pre-Columbian era, through to the modern day and all points in between. The third floor is reserved for art and sculpture.
