The Spark

Emerging Leaders face real challenges when they step into leadership.

Here is where we form our faith, character, and purpose to meet the demands of leadership.

The Forge

Transformation Pressures

Doer → Leader

Weight of Responsibilities

Integrity Pressure

Relational Complexities

Stewardship Stress

Purpose Fog

Focus on Others

Prioritization

Noise

Faith and clarity of purpose are required. Knowing what you believe, what you value, and why you're taking on leadership is critical for your success as a leader and those you're leading.

What is my leadership truly built on—and will it hold when pressure increases?

Why am I willing to go through the challenges of leadership?

Faith anchors who you're becoming. Purpose clarifies the why. Both help you form your identity. Without them, leadership just adds weight. With them, leadership forges freedom.

The Marketplace

This is where our "metal" is truly tested and we observe how our decisions hold up in real life.

When building relationships and developing responsible stewardship, be a servant leader with S.T.R.O.N.G. character.
