

A Father's Day of Remembrance

We want to thank you for your past and continued support of the National Museum of the United States Army. We know you have already honored yourself or a loved one with a commemorative brick, but we wanted to remind you with Father's Day just around the corner, a commemorative brick makes the perfect gift. Whether you're looking for Dad, Granddad, or the Father figure in your life, it is a unique and memorable opportunity to honor them on the grounds of the Museum where future generations can visit and remember.

Every Soldier, past or present, deserves to be remembered and honored in this way. Our commemorative bricks and accessories, to include cases or mini replicas, offer a unique gift of remembrance on the grounds of the U.S. Army's national landmark. Order creation takes up to two months for delivery, so consider a gift certificate for flexibility in creating a custom Father's Day gift. Read below, as others share how they have honored their Dads and Grandfathers with this lasting tribute.

"My brother Mike and I want to honor our Dad Norman Langmaid. He is very proud of his service and remembers his friendships and experiences fondly. We can't wait to visit the Museum!" – Mia L.

"My father loved his country and proudly served in the Army for over 20 years. This brick is dedicated to him in loving memory of all that he meant to his family." - Heather B. "I never met my grandfather, but I wanted to honor him and commemorate his service in WWII, so that my Dad could see it at the Museum." - Cameron L.
