

PAID RESEARCH OPPORTUNITY @ CASA

HUMANITIES INCLUSIVITY PROGRAM

APP DEADLINE: September 16, 2024 @ 11:59 P.M.

Funded by the Mellon Foundation, the Humanities Inclusivity Program (HIP) at Georgia State University creates a pipeline and support network for humanities majors from underrepresented groups to enter and succeed in Master's and Ph.D. programs. This two-year program offers a paid research assistantship students, and pairs them with GSU faculty mentors to train in their research methods and writing. HIP also provides students with intellectual preparation and social experiences that will help them enter the next stage of their path as humanities scholars, teachers, and professionals.

The expected time commitment for this program is twelve hours per week and students will be paid $20 per hour for their work. Apply here or scan the QR Code for the application.
