WINE HOST BIO

Linked Vineyards

Linked Vineyards is the dream of husband and wife, Drew Johnson and Jessica Link, who have teamed up with winemaker Luc Morlet to produce a very small production 100% Cabernet Sauvignon. The family vineyard, also their homestead, is perched just above the fogline on a hillside on the southwestern edge of Knight's Valley at an elevation of 1,200 feet.

While the Linked Vineyards name clearly has ties to the family name, it means so much more. It represents the connection of elements that help create the wine: the unique site, the family (they include Luc here) and all of the friends who pitch in and support them. Their desire is to use a beautiful Cabernet to carry a small piece of their special place in Sonoma County wherever they go, build links to new friends and bring more fascinating people into the fold. With a production of less than 250 cases each vintage, the only way to know about this exclusive "winery" is to meet them yourself or get a bottle of Linked Vineyards Cabernet shared by a very generous friend who is already in the know.
