

THE MYSTIC STAR FISH

--Dr. Kirthi Kakade

It looks beautiful and vaguely as a jewel of the seas. But why have people consider the starfish as mere useless as it lies remote in the seas amongst the molluscan order, when in real it actually creates balance by removing the excess of elements from the seas in its small convenient ways.

A star fish usually observed in the old Hindu Tantra a star fish (dead) is used to ward off evil eye and welcome positivity and divinity at a place. Much similar to the use of crystals and pyramids as symbols to purify the surrounding and bring about a positive deflection to the events and time whilst it leads to maintaining smooth functioning of events with time and buffer its effects into the spiritual plane and its aura created by the entities present at that given time..

While we also use a large piece of potassium permanganate or alum otherwise in the dhrishti ropes being tied outside most Hindu home signify more of the same purpose. While alum in laboratories are used to convert hard water to soft water in reaction. Here alum is reacting with the Calcium(Ca), Magnesium(Mg) and Ferrum/ Iron(Fe) present in the water .After reacting it produces CaSO_4 - FeSO_4 , Calcium, Magnesium and Iron salts, which aren't soluble in water. So they get precipitated. Like ways posses the slow absolving effect when tied as a dhrishti rope where it reacts with the moisture of air or humidity in creating a balance in air and its surroundings.

The popular lemon and green chilli combination seem so regular in keeping negativity at bay. Also signifies that the citrus content in the lemons disperse over a period of time to maintain the healthy air around it. When considered a lemon to have rotten (while normally it dries up, shrinks to a hard brown mass when kept exposed to air) is considered to have combated with the evil forces. Quiet strange as to how our myths can be reasoned scientifically! In real, it means that the variation in temperature of the environment where the presence of elements that trap humidity of the lemon leads to prevention of the normal dispersion effects which attracting of fungi and other bacteria that develops a rotting of lime. Now this we famously perceive to be trapped evil energy within the time that has lead to this rott having developed in the lime simply to say that the evil has be trapped and thus prevented from affecting the living mass of that area.

In Tantra a lemon is a symbol of neutral life in itself which is often used in Voodoo (a Haiti religion, believe to qork under the rule that there is one God. Voodoo religion is based on Iwa and family spirits which communicate with human beings to fulfil their wishes, to protect and sometimes to harm too. However more than 60% of the religious beliefs is done for healing purposes) and other Asian Tantric practices. A lemon in nature can stay fresh without any preservatives added to about a week by just sprinkling some water over it. This quality is perceived positive and negative reasons it depends on how or what kind of vibrations the lemon is dealt with. In positive influence its taken to a worship place and mantras which rejuvenate our body chakras are chanted along with application of turmeric (symbolizing hygiene health and purity) and thecrimson/ kumkun / sindoor (symbolizing area of concentrated energy). Which after transferring the desired vibration required to provide the desired effect is handed over and hence serves its purpose.

Similarly there are many rituals which are followed that entrap evil in small animals belonging to avian and feline species for their ability to move freely without having had any human attachment by nature.

While we look into the symbolic representation of good and bad omen on the whole.. The use of star fish in Christianity represents bringing a balance in body thoughts actions and achieving peace and divinity as it represents the virgin Mary and Infant Jesus, Madonna and her divine child who always are with the ones who seek blessings from them. It also depicts joy happiness and achieving the desired results while in confusion and chaos.

The debate over how and why needs a deeper understanding of science in relation to the entities of natural behaviour, that brings about a sync with the want and needs, with thoughts and action, with peace and possession. Each counterpart acting as an extreme of the other..

While it's also believed that use of the mystic star fish attracts fairies and angels, may simply mean that your mind is incognito with both your conscious and your subconscious bringing you the desired result by creating a positive affirmation within yourself, ruled by the famous Law of Attraction.

Dream analysis depicts the visions of starfish in your dreams as good omen especially when they are seen in bright and vibrant colours. A starfish in water symbolizes the possibility of achieving divinity and purity of a child like nature in near future.

Lastly the quiet ignored starfish that seemed to have taken life on earth from a celestial star sure keeps up our spirits lively just as its counterpart in the sky.
