

Negative Entities

When one goes down the spiritual path, one needs to understand the dangers involved. One needs to have a very intellectual mind and intelligence enough to analyze any negativity that arises. Spiritual development is for those who can decipher the difference between communication with negative spirits and positive spirits. There will be times when one needs to correctly decipher the information they receive and learn when it is true or false. Not all information received from spirit is true and some spirits are only out to deceive you. These are negative entities, most often called demons, who want to mislead, deceive, and manipulate you in any way they can. They don't care about you and can sometimes deceive individuals into thinking they are your spirit guides. Spirit guides are assigned to each of us prior to our incarnation into physical form through birth. They are here to help you and look over an individual during their incarnation. However, if demons or other negative entities are strong enough, they can push your spirit guides away from you in order to do what they do best. Unless exposed to a haunted place infested by demons, the chances are you will never be exposed to them or be aware of them through one's incarnation. Once an individual awakens to the spirit world and starts to hear spirits (telepathically) or see them (clairvoyant), sometimes this can draw spirits to you, both good and bad. This is why one needs to know how to discern helping spirits from negative or evil spirits.

Wiccan vs shamanism and mediumship

Mediumship and Shamanism enables one to open up to the spirit world in a safe and protected manner. Thru a spiritual development circle one can learn and be taught how to begin with the process of receiving spirit messages on their own. Shamanism is a way of learning who one's spirit guides are thru the form of a shamanic journey. Thru a shamanic journey one can interact and communicate with their spirit guides and begin forming a relationship and friendship with them. Shamanism is the safest form of spiritual development for a beginner.

Wicca is a form of magic through the practice of rituals and spells, and is not recommended for beginners or intermediate spiritualists. Why? Because there are very real dangers it can bring into one's home and family. Wiccan magic draws in negative spirits along with positive ones. One really needs to establish a strong effective communication with one's spirit guides prior to venturing into Wicca. For it is one's spirit guides who can help train and guide one on a safe spiritual path in whatever path you choose. I, myself, waited until my spirit guide approved a Wicca 101 group for me to attend. Not to necessarily join and practice Wicca, but to understand their way of living, rituals, and practices.

Astral projection dangers

Astral projection is when your conscious mind joins with the spirit/soul/sub-conscious and one can explore the spirit world through the use of their astral body. Normally in the spiritual development process, this opens up to one only at certain times or occasions. Every individual's spiritual path is unique so what one individual experiences may not be your experiences. With that understood. I'm going to continue on by noting the dangers of the astral environment. There are many dangers involved with astral projection. One can draw negative spirits unknowingly back with them to their place of residence. Negative spirits can also take on any form that they feel you may wish to see them as. Deception on the astral plane is a very high possibility. Before one astral projects, one should establish contact with all their spirit guides. And when one does gain access to astral projection, it is very important to always be escorted by one of your spirit guides for protection.

Ouija Boards

Ouija Boards are not to be used under any circumstances. If one wants to explore communications with the spirit world, one needs to search out a spiritual development circle or start reading books on psychic development. One should never use a Ouija Board for the whim of curiosity. With an Ouija Board, the possibility of attracting unwanted spirits is a VERY strong possibility. Once an unwanted entity gains access to one's home, unexpected phenomena may start to unfold; for instance, cabinet doors or drawers open on their own, lights turn on and off, and unexplained noises begin emanating throughout the house. Over the course of a few months things start to escalate in intensity. Sometimes an individual's personality may be affected or they may experience mood swings. This is usually caused by these negative or evil entities when they start to interfere with and influence one's thoughts, and/or are attempting to possess you or a family member.

Hauntings and spiritualism

Spiritualism connects one to the spiritual world so he or she can learn how to communicate with spirits. As one opens themselves up to communications with spirits, one can also open themselves up to negativity as well. If one takes proper precautions, one can surround themselves with positive spirits. However, in some cases, one can draw in negative entities into their home. This is usually caused by inexperienced individuals exploring Ouija Boards or Wicca, although, it can happen to any of us. Especially if one is just starting out and hasn't established connection with his or her spirit guides yet. In other cases, one may unknowingly move into a haunted residence and little by little things start to manifest. Soon one can be faced with a horrific situation. This is why many need to understand that there is no fast track to spiritual development and beginners must stay away from Ouija Boards and Wicca and seek out a spiritual development circle in a nearby town.

God/Goddess and Archangels names

Regardless whether one believes in multiple Gods or not, one needs to be aware of false hood when calling out to an ancient God or Goddess. Many of the ancient God or Goddesses changed their names to ArchAngel names when one God was put in charge of all of humanity. These Gods or Goddesses now answer to the call of their ArchAngel name only. To answer to their former God or Goddess name would disrespect the one true God over humanity and Heaven's values. They are now part of the hierarchy of the highest council closest to God in Heaven. Negative or evil spirits will quite often respond to the calling out of God or Goddesses ancient names, impersonating them, in an effort to deceive or manipulate you.
