

ASPW-10

Maintenance of Your Dream

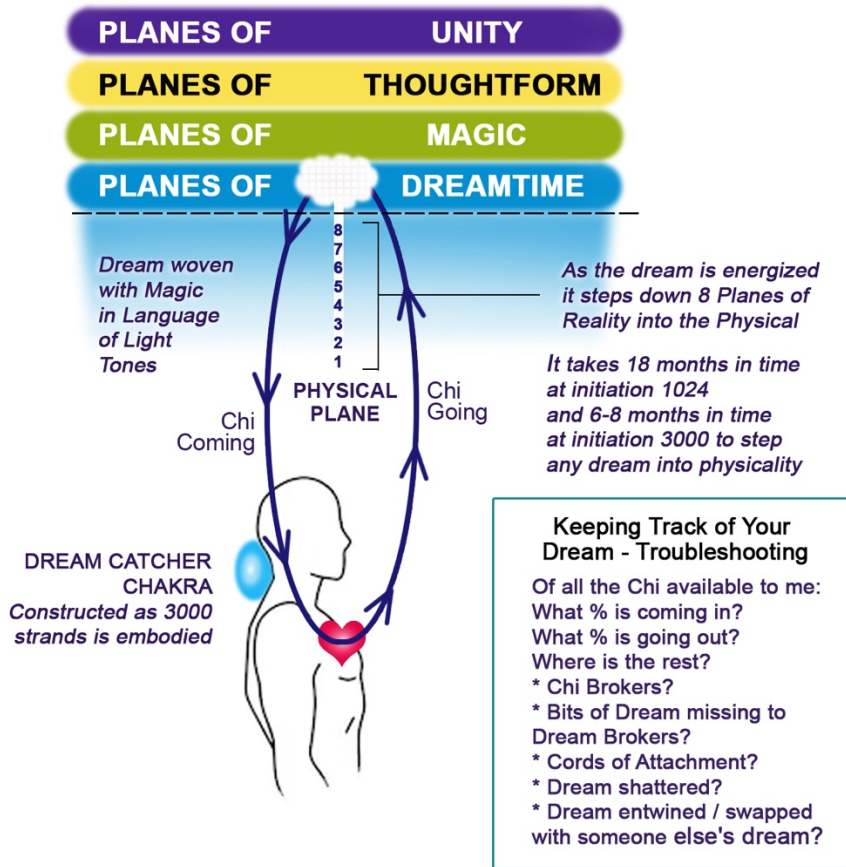

The dreamtime planes have been resolved. This allows those who have attained 3000 DNA segments or higher to manifest their dream with ease. You will require maintaining the dream daily so that you do not end up manifesting other than your own intentions. Here are some suggested dream maintenance tips.

1. The dream is rewoven and sits as an egg shaped energy pattern behind the neck. Make sure that the dream is whole and complete. If someone has taken a chunk or drilled a hole sucking the dream out leaving a hollow shell in its place, retrieve all that has been lost, and return that which has been inserted. Then intent completion with the part or parties at cause, balancing all scales or karma. The image below is the dream catcher chakra.

2. Make sure that there is not less and less chi coming from the dreamtime planes in a given week. If there is a decline in available chi, intend to release karma and complete with those that are taking your creative flow. Then retrieve all that has been lost that is beyond karmic settlement.

DREAM WEAVING

3. Intention for ascension or manifestation of a particular dream, such as for a loving partner that can ascend with you, or for a workshop to manifest, or for clients to find you, are small hologram that sit outside of your dream. Each hologram should have a thread leading to one or more who is being called to the dance of participation with your dream. Make sure that all threads are present and to all concerned and reel them in like a fish. If threads are missing, see who is interfering with you spell casting and release the karma and intend completion with all parties involved, recasting the spell.

4. Clear the dream daily of all projections, or attachment. Sometimes others will attach a dream that is not your own, and your chi will thereby go into manifesting the dream of another for another. Release all karma and intend completion with those that you have received such projection from.

5. If a portion of your dream has become twisted to another, and another's dream intertwined with your own, untwist the intertwining and release the agreements to exchange dreams. Often one will exchange one dream for another, and such agreements are generally karmic. Release the karma and intend completion with all parties involved and the exchange shall not occur again.

6. Check to see if the dream upon the dreamtime planes surrounding Earth is whole and intact. If portions of the dream have been siphoned off or your dream drained, retrieve that has been lost and release the karma. Also, look for attachments or devices that take your creative flow or are intertwined. Release and remove the attachments or devices. Intend to release karma and complete with all parties involved.

It may be helpful in manifesting your dream to intend a flower of life energy flow or beehive flow for your subtle bodies. See image below for flower of life and beehive flow.

