Twin Nature

Holographic Divine Twin Nature

Divine twins are a biological sequence of dream that allows for the masculine and feminine holographic natures to be represented in all accolades of belief. Twins are a formation that occurs in each archetype. All archetypes are a form of human expression that is both holographic and physical. Physical formations of archetypal sequences cause humans to behave in parallel manners to each ancestor that is associated. Twins tend to mirror configurations of dream of particular archetypes in opposing themes. If the male twin is famous and gifted in spiritual pursuit, then the female will also be gifted but infamous. If the female twin is preoccupied with union of the divine, the male twin will be accolade into non-partnership of any consequence.

Twins Are Attributes of Self

Divine twins of holographic consequence are really an attribute of self. Within each is a male and female part of self-related to the left and right brain mindset. The left brain is masculine and is associated with language and the right brain is feminine and is associated with artistic or intuitive self-expression. Each side of self is necessary unto the whole and in an anthology of understanding, all twins are also represented within in the male and female sides of self. All twin formations are an expression of the internalized male and female expressed outside of self in another body related unto the genealogical inheritance of self.

Twins come in many configurations that experience and express through time in light wave synergy motions of accolades of truth. Those mastering initiations in light wave mindset restore twin configurations to the magnitude of possibility that they were once called to be in holographic circumstance of ancient origins. Ancient origins of archetypal wheels were configured in a maze of support for each along with the whole. Over time, the archetypes collapsed through rendering and lost the capacity to hold the solid systems of sustenance that were once a part of the ancient ancestral experience.

The ancient ancestors are striving for a restoration of truth that was present only in a short duration in time upon Earth and in an earlier sequence of dreams. The dreams associated with the ancestors occurred in a time of ancient purpose of transfusion. Transfusion is an act of defying death through nonphysical restoration into an octave of the nonphysical. The ancient men and women arrived upon Earth and transfused in a single life departing with a memory of a region of domain that was beautiful and supportive of the spiritual choices of the incarnation. In ancient times, some humans did not reincarnate but rather transfused out of physicality into a nonphysical awareness that is succinct in its capacity to carry on in an accolade of truth.

Truth has long been lost in the dimensions that transfusion was once successful at creating a nonphysical existence after a long lifetime of understanding and spiritual mastery. Spiritual mastery is almost a misnomer of possibility in this time period as all mastery is really an understanding that the physical is only a delusion to be relinquished when the duration of the incarnation experience is complete.

The ancient ancestors are a force that is present today due to holographic accolades that were once a part of the inheritance that transfused. The consciousness of the ancestors remain for each that is to foray itself into a nonphysical existence following the footsteps of the journey over the physical of the lifetime. Those who departed did so in dimensions above present time 3D status, and it is unclear that anyone can walk the path that was laid from the vibration that Earth is currently suspended within. Twins of real mastery were destined to foray together into nonphysical existences. Often twins of parallel origins would gather in regions such as Earth to transfuse together and support one another through the circumstances associated with the mastery over the physical. Earth was a destination for transfusion of many twins that occupied the pristine valleys and forests of the time and relied upon the consensus for the fortitude required to transfuse. Earth was considered a wonderful place to foray due to the natural world habitat that drew many humans here over time for mastery purposes. The history of transfusion of twins is surfacing at this time to be understood by those mastering light wave mindset frequencies that are related. Blessings of support of each mastering at this time.
