Light Infusion and Sustainable Health

Sick Cells

Sick cells in a given part of the body are also associated with sick thoughts in the mind. Sick cells in the liver are associated with anger and anxiety. Sick cells in the spleen are associated with loss of heart or loss of passion for your life dreams. Sick cells in the kidneys are associated with loss of the desire to live or suicidal tendencies. Sick cells in the pancreas are associated with the loss of hope for your life purpose. Sick cells in the lungs are associated with the desire to not associate with others or care for others or yourself. Sick cells in the heart are associated with loss of love of yourself or for others.

Sick cells in the blood are associated with a loss of the desire to dream your dreams. Sick cells in the lymph are associated with the loss of the desire to foster the life into a dream you desire. Sick cells in the bladder are associated with the loss of capacity to be in your light wave mind. Sick cells in the reproductive organs are associated with the loss of the desire for partnership in the life. Sick cells in the spine are associated with the loss of enough life force to live the life. Sick cells in the hands or the feet are associated with the desire not to live.

Transfusion brings up the sickness in each part of the body and its DNA from the most unhealthy to least unhealthy through time to be cleansed in the light. The light is infused into the sick cells triggering them to renew and regrow into new light wave DNA that is healthy and functional. The old DNA is warbled and sour leading to aging and disease. The new light wave DNA is pure and does not repose in sour sounds leading to sustainable longevity and health.

The light infusion in the act of transfusion renews and restores the health of the entire organism of you. All unhealthy DNA and cells are associated with sick thoughts in the mind stream of you. Most of the sick thoughts were suspended in the unconscious through ascension levels of development. As the light motion takes flight and transfusion begins, what is unconscious grows to be conscious so that the sickness of you can be self-realized through into new understanding of the divine.

Divine understanding is a gracious state to experience and express when the mindset has fully developed. It takes time to bridge into divine understanding in this time period. Please be gentle and kind to yourself as your self-development into self-realization unfolds. There are many resources present upon Earth to aid you in your journey of mindset development. Please give to the body all the nutrients required to foster a complete cortex revitalization and growth into a full set of twelve synapses that flower in all divine concepts ahead.
