Transcendental Self

The transcendental self is a fostering of the capacity to realize beyond the quagmires of a human born into third dimensional limitations of delusion. The human system of dreaming is bound by a system of delusion that is not unlike layers of a gauze of light that reflects belief systems that each think must be so. Each level or octave transfused through as light motion of field takes flight raises you above the gauzes of delusion and into other possibilities of thought-stream that are unlimited and of spirit. Each thought-stream mastered in the mind waves of you lifts a portion of the veils of delusion that you have been surrounded by for your entire life. Each delusion did cause and affect certain life experiences.

Each delusion when risen above allows for a completion and absolution of the cause and effect that the belief suspended over the dreams of the life. The life dreams then reach new heights of possibilities of non-limitation for what is experienced next.

Beliefs are not real. Beliefs are suspended in the DNA. As the DNA is purified in light motion of field, the thoughts of spirit can be integrated as new light wave DNA grows. As the new light wave DNA grows, the belief systems of delusion are relinquished within. Beliefs come in six categories in this cycle. The first is the belief in the outside power of another. In truth you are yourself always and no other has any power over your reality unless you think otherwise.

The second is the belief in unions of the non-divine. There is no union really unless spirit and soul are involved in which case it is divine. If spirit and soul are not involved, there is not a union occurring within or between the two. The third is the belief in the prostitution of yourself for the gain of another. In truth, there is karma to be settled and once absolved, the scales balance leading to balanced giving and receiving and abundance in the life. The fourth belief is in the grandness of some and the smallness of others. In mastering a state of divine love, each is witnessed as equal, regardless of life role and purpose.

The fifth belief is in the everlasting not of yourself, or in other terms, time that ages and leads to death through disease. In transfusion, time ceases, and you may roll back the clock to a physical youth impossible outside of light wave motion of field. Death is a choice when the life is complete and not due to disease. Transfusion into a conscious crossing is possible when it is time and when the life has fulfilled its soul's purpose but while still vital in the physical. Yogis do not age and nor shall you as a Yogi of you.

The sixth belief is more difficult to address in some anthologies than others. It is the belief in the physical limitations of time, space, and form. There is no physical limitation if enough light is sustained within, and you could levitate or bi-locate or teleport to wherever you envision. Some can master this only in the ethereal (uh·thee·ree·uhl) and not the physical this cycle due to the need to infuse more light into the body than it can withstand without becoming ill.

The transcendental self aids the self of you in realizing through the quagmires of each belief that fostered the life strife or joy that you have known through time. The transcendental self is a gift of spirit for those destined to realize self in this life. The transcendental self fosters unison of self to aid you in mastering the mind waves necessary to rise above the belief systems you have been caught within. The transcendental self fosters a new system of understanding that defies limitation of dream, aging, disease, and death.

The new system of light wave mind concepts flowers in the cortex of the mind to interpret the truth of spirit and soul rising above human belief systems. You are of the light. You descended into matter to complete karma and to realize something else. As the delusion lifts, the transcendental self allows you to experience the freedom of the light that you are outside of the delusion of yourself.
