Imbalance of Masculine and Feminine Energies

In the West, the mixture of yin and yang has also resulted in many sociological changes. In the West, the feminine took on a masculine vibration around the turn of the century and brought forth the “Women’s movement”. The Women’s movement has polarized women into masculine pursuits. The feminine form now interested in masculine business pursuits is a good archetypal example of the shift in polarities that has occurred within the West. Here we find the feminine form devoid of any femininity or true feminine power, who has embraced what is deemed powerful to the masculine form, which is greed, wealth, and separatism.

The separation of the masculine and feminine (and the separation of their gifts and talents) are greatly misunderstood within the distortion of Earth and within your creation. The feminine form is powerful in a different way from the masculine. The feminine is powerful in her ability to love and intuit or perceive the future. The masculine is powerful in his ability to manifest and create that which the feminine intuits. The masculine and feminine require each other, and in a state of divine union, the two energies come to balance.

When the masculine energies are devoid of the feminine energies, creation and manifestation becomes overvalued. Greed and hoarding results. The pursuit of greed and manifestation devoid of love or consideration of how such manifestations affect the well-being of Mother Earth is the result of masculine energy run rampant without the feminine energy in counterbalance. Those in feminine form who have adopted the masculine pursuit of greed and manifestation are equally out of balance. If true feminine power is restored upon the Earth plane, there is a potential of bringing the restoration of love to Earth.

The love of the feminine has the potential to restore the respect and honor to the land, the respect and honor of all lifeforms upon Earth. The love of the feminine has the potential to ascend Earth. This will require the feminine to rise in power and come together as a collective voice in a way they have yet to accomplish.

The biological ascension of form brings forth the restoration of the correct pursuit of power. Power (as humanity has known it for many thousands of years now) has been based upon greed and wealth and has never held the well-being of the whole of Earth or Mother Earth in mind. Ascension and the genetic alterations inherent within its manifestation brings forth a resurgence of power based upon the love of the whole, the love of all. Ascension brings forth a restoration of inner power within those who have felt disempowered. Conversely, for those who have been falsely empowered by greed and wealth, ascension brings forth a correction that results in a loss of wealth and false power and a resurgence of true power that is based upon unity and the greatest good of the whole.
