The Possibility of Magnetism as an Energy Source

There are also scientists who have developed magnetic energy but are not even given credit for what has been created. Why is this so? Within an electrical pyramidal dream, how can you acknowledge magnetism as a power source? You cannot as the dominant force is electricity within an electrical dream; and so hence the response of the other scientific community that magnetic energy is not possible even when presented with a working device. As the magnetic Figure 8 dream becomes the dominant dream, then magnetic energy will be more readily validated and then developed.

It is necessary for humanity to move into magnetism as an energy source as the reality is that both electricity and combustion will cease the further Terra enters the dream of the Great Central Sun as they do not resonate. The development of magnetic energy will be the only power source available at some future point; and humans would have to resort to transport by foot or horse again if they choose not to move in this direction. We see most ascending initiates really like their creature comforts and so it is most likely that a magnetic form of chi to power technology will be developed ahead and as the magnetic dream dominates enough to do so. The magnetic dream will be less rigid and more fluid allowing for many other changes within human civilization ahead as a result.

The magnetic Figure 8 dream has always been upon Earth and remains in some regions that are more rural in nature. The ascending map carvers have moved into a Figure 8 dream some time ago as it is a gentler dream to ascend within, and have aided Terra in reuniting this dream as a global force for humans to return to ahead. As more humans ascend and millions of ascending children enter the world; the Figure 8 dream will become the dominant dream. The Figure 8 dream has also been dominant in other time periods in which humans lived in greater unity and peace with one another.
