

Campaign Corner 9.7.18

I'm proud of the work my campaign team has put in over these last few months. We know these last 60 days are going to be harder, we will have to dig deeper, and if possible even sleep a little less.

I am humbled to receive the support of both Georgia Equality and the Georgia AFL-CIO over this past week. The PSC should require all companies to provide their HR handbook and should review any employment lawsuits before awarding contracts to ensure we make lawful and fair decisions.

I grew up in a family with Union members & self-taught business owners - my grandparents were immigrant stock and none of them completed school beyond 4th grade. However, they had union jobs, owned small businesses, built our infrastructure and gave their children a chance at the American dream. My parents did not attend college, they joined the military – that was their ticket to a better life for me and my sister.

Spotlight of the Week: Jen Raferan

Thank you for sharing your time and talent with my campaign!

Your support of candidates across Georgia and the rest United States is unmatched. Your heart is in the battle for democracy.

I've spent my career training others to be their own best advocates in critical areas of need - environmental, mental health, substance use, and disability. As a candidate, I have been traveling across the state with open heart, ears and mind. I've purposely sought out those living and working in the shadows of Plant Vogtle learning what this project means to them, their health and their livelihood.

60 days is not a long time. Thank You for trusting me to be your Consumer Advocate on the PSC!
