

Hello, Friends!

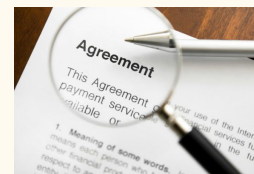

A Big Thank you!!!

To all those who came to our open house Friday, December 13, I want to say thank you. I am blessed to have so much support.

We wish you all a very Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year!

Business Service Agreement Reminders

If you are a business that received our email with your service agreement for 2020, please remember we need that signed and returned prior to the end of December. If you haven't received yours yet, it will be coming soon.

Tax Season

Time to get ready! The IRS will begin to accept e-filed returns on Monday January 20. We will email tax organizers in January, begin setting up tax appointments, and invite you to your new secure document sharing portal.

New publications that helps taxpayers get ready and stay ready for tax filing season

With the tax filing season almost here, taxpayers should check out two new IRS publications available on IRS.gov. These publications can help people get prepared to submit their tax returns and stay organized with tips for year-round tax planning

Publication 5348, Get Ready to File

This publication provides helpful filing information and resources on:

- Electronic filing options
- Tax refunds
- Withholding
- Estimated tax payments
- Credits and deductions
- Data protection

Publication 5349, Year-round tax planning is for everyone

Life changes can affect taxpayers' expected refunds or the amount of tax they owe. These changes include things like employment status, marital status and financial gains or losses. Publication 5349 provides tips on developing habits throughout the year that will help make tax preparation easier. This resource also includes a checklist of items taxpayers should have on hand when filing their tax return.
