To Whom It May Concern:

As the Parenting Education Coordinator for Lincoln County with Parenting Success Network (PSN), I have had the pleasure of partnering with Richard Halpern of Coach4Parents to provide several one-time virtual workshops for families and childcare professionals in Linn, Benton, and Lincoln Counties.

This past year alone, we have seen the interest in attending a Coach4Parents presentation explode with high attendance/retention rates, a waiting list to attend, and inquiries regarding registration for the next workshop. Workshop evaluations completed by the participants reflect appreciation for Richard's expertise regarding the topics at hand and his ability to organize the information for optimal reception. Many participants state their interest to attend further presentations by Richard and all participants state they will likely use the information and resources they learned in their personal and professional lives.

Richard has a talent for engaging attendees and uses an array of methods throughout his presentations to accommodate a variety of learning styles including videos, small group breakouts, and large group discussions. Richard includes the most current resources to reflect the ever-evolving information and research concerning families, and he is mindful of inclusion in his materials and language.

I look forward to continuing our partnership in the upcoming years to provide families and childcare professionals with the content and skills to provide exceptional care to children in Linn, Benton, and Lincoln Counties.

Sincerely,
