

I offer an ATM service

Who is responsible for filling the ATM with banknotes?

My organisation is responsible - our own staff fill the ATM with banknotes supplied by a bulk supplier (e.g. delivered by a CiT company)

My organisation is responsible - but our staff don't fill the ATM, we have a contract with another company to fill the ATM for us

Another organisation is responsible

You are not responsible for complying with the Code - the organisation that fills the ATM is responsible

You need to confirm with your banknote supplier that the notes they give you have been machine-authenticated.
Ask your supplier if they supply your notes in accordance with principle 1.1 of the Code, i.e. notes must be authenticated using an authenticator listed on the relevant framework.

Download diagrams

ACBI Framework

View the Framework

How to report your compliance

- Your ATM operator may ask you to confirm that the banknotes you put in your ATM have been machine-authenticated.
- Your ATM operator will report aggregated compliance data.