Gendering and Pageants

Article by Jazmine James

The pageant scene in the LGBTQIA community dates to 1972 with the Miss Gay America Pageant. This was 3 years after the stonewall riots that were started by Sylvia Rivera and Marsha P Johnson, two trans women of color. The Miss Gay America Pageant has focused on contestants that were assigned the gender of male at birth and did not identify as Transgender or they had not had any body modifications below the neck. Almost 50 years later, the Miss Gay America system still holds true to this and promotes that their system is where boys are boys and female illusion is an art.

Over the years other pageant systems were created to provide opportunities for Trans entertainers or entertainers that had body modifications, however some of them required that you be pre-operative and again focused on Trans females as their rules state you must have been born male at birth. This left a gap for CIS female and Trans Male entertainers which thru time was addressed. As gender fluidity evolved many pageants have added several divisions to address the change in gender roles as well as opening pageants that focus on different forms of entertainment and art form. Many of the system changes and additions started about 10 years ago and at that time was seen as a progressive approach to our ever-changing community. Like many things in life gender roles and gendering are changing.

We have recently seen the changes in the rules for athletes in the Olympics and other sporting events which I am personally very supportive of. So, I ask the question should we look at pageantry the same way and take the same approach? Does it matter if you are trans, CIS, non-binary? Should we have divisions or do divisions separate us to level a playing field? if so, what is the playing field? Should a CIS Female be allowed to compete against a CIS male who does “female illusion”? Should we ask for “equality” at the Olympics but ignore it in the LGBTQIA Pageant system. I mean the Miss Nevada USA system just proved that it did not depend on what your medical gender diagnosis was at birth. Did a mainstream pageant system just break the rules we worked so hard to build?

I do not have the answers, but I do believe that it should be a fluid discussion and one promoters and contestants should be willing to have. I find all types of performers despite their medical diagnosis of a gender entertaining. As an entertainer and a fan of entertainment my suggestion is “Drag” should just be enjoyed by the consumer and the “drag” entertainer should enjoy what they do. It should never be about a medical diagnosis based on the genitalia that a person was born with.

So where can pageant, systems improve? Look at your handbooks, are you using gender nonspecific language? Do you ask contestants their preferred pronouns? Make sure your hosts are aware of contestant's identity and they understand the importance of misgendering. Educate your judges about the importance of understanding identity and proper pronoun usage, especially in interview. Make sure the contestant's government name or dead name should only be used on legal documents like contracts etc.

Pageant promoters should make commitment to protect the identity of each contestant and promote a gender inclusive environment. The more inclusive your system is the more opportunities you will have to make an impact on the community that we serve.

If anyone needs assistance on Gender pronoun training and Gender inclusivity training, please feel free to contact me.

CATEGORY IS..... AMERICANA RUNWAY

Our signature category Americana Runway is one of category where the contestants creativity can shine. There are few limitations-

One- You must use ALL three colors (Red White AND Blue) in your costume.

Two- There are only a few places exclusions for that rule- Hair Color, Jewlery castings, and Shoe bottoms-- the most common place where contestants lose points is zippers, thread colors, and accessories- The entire outfit with the exception of Jewelry castings, Hair, and Shoe bottoms MUST be Red White and Blue

Think of the small details that can set you apart from your competition. Think Project Runway or MET Gala looks.

The following is the official description for the category:

Americana Runway Fashion (100 points/judge)

This category is a “clothing and modeling” category. We are looking for any runway ready fashion outfit that is suitable for the contestant and must be comprised of the colors RED, WHITE, and BLUE. You must use all three colors somewhere in your outfit. Contestants will be given a 0 score in the Creative portion of the category and only half of the category will be available for scoring if they don't incorporate all three colors.

In addition Contestants can NOT use any other colors for any part of the look whatsoever from head to toe including accessories. The only exclusion is jewelry back castings and the soles of shoes. If another color is used other than red, white or blue they will receive a 0 in the creative portion of the category and only half the category will be available for scoring.

We are looking for an edgy and creative fashion using red, white, and blue. This is not to be a costume, but something that could be seen on the runways of top fashion shows or runways by famous designers. Think along the lines of Project Runway or America's Next Top Model or designers such as Dolce and Gabanna, or Versace. No commentaries are required from the contestants in this category. This is solely a runway modeling category divided into three sub-categories for scoring purposes.

Presentation – how well you model on the stage 0-25 points

Style and Fit 0-25 points

Creativity/Overall Impression 0-50 points

MISS GAY UNITED STATES FEMME FATALE

Taylor's Tributes

Greetings Friends, Family, and Fellow Femme Fatale's!!!

We are 2 months in to this amazing Reign, and I am so excited and energized by how busy I have been! I was able to hold, and host a National Victory Party for all of the newly crowned titleholders, do my first National Promo photoshoot, and....I picked up another Prelim!!! To date, our Femme Fatale division has 4 prelims coming up for anyone interested in qualifying for their ticket to Nationals!! To my seasoned Femmes, and Divas, let's Unite and cross promote! If you would like to own a prelim, let's talk, and provide more opportunities for talented, and creative women!!

I am LOVING my reign as Miss Gay United States Femme Fatale, and it has been the biggest blessing, however, I am realizing that one of my most pressing jobs is to help educate, and spread the word about what a Femme Fatale is!! I am all about creating opportunities for empowerment, but how do I do that when my biggest question asked so far is "What is a Femme Fatale?"

The word Femme Fatale is a French Term that means "An Attractive and Alluring Woman." I personally love this term, because it describes this division beautifully. Through GUS Pageantry, any cis women, can set a goal, pick a prelim, and compete to join this amazing system! Contestants do not have to be LGBTQ to compete, however being an Ally is encouraged!

So if you are fabulous, we want you! If you Love to Entertain, we want you! If YOU are ready to just be YOU, It is your time to shine!

We are the family of the Red, White, and Blue (Ask me about Americana! It was one of my favorite categories!!) and when I won, I promised to grow the sisterhood!! Anyone competing during my reign will undoubtedly form bonds that will last a lifetime, and in me, you will have a support system for whatever you need. With as life changing as the experience is, I want as many women as possible to have access to the opportunity!! So in closing, my personal message to any interested contestants, is to believe in yourself, and trust that you are worth it!

You Got This!!

With Love,
Your GUS Femme Fatale

Austen's Announcements

My Life Since Winning GUS

Well ... a lot has happened! First, I celebrated and CRIED. I barely took a breath, and my dad passed away after his long battle with cancer. That experience was a true learning opportunity for me and my family. My dad was a huge positive force in my life, and I feel him in all I do. He taught me to love unapologetically. To always give my all. And most importantly, to treat everyone with compassion and respect. Amid all the upheaval, I had to move out of my home, as my landlord decided to sell the house. When it rains, it pours. I traveled to my first official GUS appearance at the weekend victory party at Cobalt Bar in Phoenix, Arizona, hosted by my beautiful wife GUS Femme Fatale 2021, Taylor René Simone. I had such a great time in the desert with Londenn, Bionka, and my predecessor, the handsome Christian Gaye.

After my first on-scene photoshoot, we went sight-seeing in the Arizona desert. I had needles injected into me by a jumping cactus, and drank boxed water. Next, I took a red-eye flight back to Dayton to repack, followed by a 5:00 am flight to Charlottesville, Virginia to perform at the Art Park. Next, I traveled to Roanoke to perform with Arione, Alexis, and Buff Faye (National Entertainer of the Year) at the Park. Then, ANOTHER flight back home to pack some more. Next stop... Orlando, Florida for National Showgirl/Showman to support my family, Big Fee and September Murphy. Getting to sit with the National men, Monte St. James, Tyler Markstone, and Seymour Chilton was quite simply ... mind-blowing! Over my many years in drag, I've admired and looked up to each of them. In July, I did my FIRST NATIONAL WALK with my brother, Christian Amir France, and ran into 1st Alternate to GUS Femme, Jasmine Cassadine. I would be remiss if I didn't add CONGRATS to Oliver Woodstock on winning National Showman, as the first non-binary person to win. Then, I got to go and support Buff Faye at Entertainer of the Year in Louisville, Kentucky with Sabrina, Londenn, and Jackson. Huge congratulations to ZodiAx Iman and Paris Campbell on becoming National Entertainer of the Year.

Catch me "on the move," as I grace stages in Kentucky, Ohio, Virginia, Things have been so busy, and I have not stopped, but I promise I am working hard to get a prelim in your area!! Thank you all for the words of encouragement, but mostly for loving me and believing in me!!! See you in the stage lights! #benationalbeunited

Costuming on a Budget

There has been a lot of conversations lately about costuming for male presenting entertainers and the difficulty in upgrading your wardrobe on a budget. Investing in your craft is important and costuming is one of the fun and creative ways you can grow. SO here I'm going to give a few tips that I use to not break the bank

- Not everyone has the ability to sew but anyone can learn the basics. Sewing.com offers dozens of tutorials and links to sites where you can learn the basics for FREE. Even if you don't learn how to make a costume from scratch, learning to hem or resize something can go a long way in saving money!

- Thifting! Though not always a gold mine, you can find a few treasures among the racks! While perusing, look for items that can be embellished, altered or jushed up. You're not going to find a complete costume but anything can strike inspiration.

- Wish! Yea, yea, I know, wish can be a pain in the butt. With slow shipping and sizing issues it can be more hassle than it's worth sometimes. But, I have many pieces in my closet that I got from wish and then embellished into a great costume. The key with wish is the long game. Don't order something for the short term or something you need right away. When shopping, think of things that can be versatile and that can be used down the road. Plus, if you're like me and forget you've ordered things, its like a surprise present when it arrives!

- Embellishments. Embellishments can be hard to find, especially on a budget. However, there are many budget friendly ways to get rhinestones, spikes, chain, etc. Some of my go to's for rhinestones are blinggasm.com (which has a wide variety of stones for great prices, use code "BLING" at checkout for 10% off) or Savage Glare (found on Facebook). For chains and spikes Amazon is a good bet. If they don't have the color you want, spray paint can fix that. Spray paint is a great tool for drag. I use it frequently to make accessories match the costume. Its good for shoes, belts, spikes, pretty much anything you want to make match!

- Second hand. There are multiple groups on Facebook where you can buy costumes second hand. "Drag Swap" and "Boy Drag Depot" are two of the groups I use to look for things that have been gently used.

Finding costumes on a budget can be difficult but its not impossible. If all of these tips fail, there are still many drag designers out there that can work on a budget and get you the costuming you desire. I hope these tips are helpful! If you want more info on where I shop on a budget or DIY tips, feel free to hit me up!

Reigning with Rain

July has flown by and I'm grateful to have been busy all month with traveling for shows as well as networking to build the Gay United States brand ...

I was really pleased with traveling to Louisville KY to participate in a nationals rep brunch. Thanks Tova and C+C Low Carb Kitchen for bringing Gay America, Continental, and Gay United States together to entertain and celebrate.

While in Louisville I also attended National Entertainer of the Year with some of my court counterparts Austen, Jackson and Sabrina. I've been competing in pageantry since age 11 and I've had my. Experience of winning and not winning many many pageants from local mall pageantry to grand international. Contests...I've learned to always stay true to myself and utilize my god given talents and design styles ..I'm a huge belie ver that your attitude is determined by your altitude in all aspects of life or pageantry ..I've never been upset nor displayed poor sportsmanship at any pageant because we all have our moment to be victorious and shine ..I get so disappointed when I see people act in a non becoming manner it play the blame game etc ..or even attack the winner in a passive aggressive FB .ive video..lol ..stay humble and real everyone please ...
