

eNKouraged, LLC was founded by CEO Natasha Kollaros nearly ten years ago to provide concierge services for international boarding school students. As a first generation American citizen, an accomplished boarding school graduate, and having spent most of her professional career working at top boarding schools in the Southeastern region of the United States, Natasha understands the importance of safe, meaningful holiday experiences tailored to international boarding students who are unable to travel home during school breaks. eNKouraged provides a host of holiday experiences, weekend excursions, and other cultural and recreational activities. The care and well-being of each student, and the services eNKouraged provides are more important than ever as we navigate life post pandemic and mitigate the impact on the students who are the furthest from home. We look forward to the 2021-2022 academic school year and would love to partner with you to provide your students with exciting holiday and weekend experiences! Natasha lives in Alexandria, Virginia with her husband, Daryl, children Ayden and Tatiana, and the family dog, Leilani.
