Five Ways Music Lessons Benefits Kids

Confidence Builder – Learning an instrument empowers kids to develop a skill, giving them a sense of achievement as they witness their progress and improve over time.

Boost Brain Power – Music activates areas of the brain linked to reading, math, and emotional development, helping kids strengthen critical thinking and problem-solving skills.

Enhances Social Skills – Music lessons encourage self-expression and can help children break out of their shell, building confidence in social settings through performances, group lessons, or recitals.

Teaches Discipline – Mastering an instrument takes time and commitment. Regular practice teaches kids the value of patience, dedication, and the rewards of hard work.

Strengthens Memory – Learning music at a young age improves memory and cognitive skills by encouraging brain patterns that support learning, focus, and recall.

Happy Birthday!

Teacher Spotlight

Krista Palek

What instruments do you teach, and how long have you been teaching? Piano, 15 Years

What inspired you to start teaching music?

To be able to pass on the beauty of being able to play piano as well as give a good basis for students who wanted to pursue other instruments.

What's your favorite piece of music to teach?

The songs that my students want to learn for fun outside of their lesson book songs. Everything that interests them. I try to change things up and try to make it fun for them.

What do you enjoy most about teaching at Key Mobile Music? I'm able to teach my students in their home on the piano or keyboard they practice on and are used to.

Do you have a memorable moment with a student that stands out?

I feel I have too many great memorable moments with my students to single out just one of them. Anytime a student of mine works hard on a song and they finally master it, that's a wonderful memorable moment for me.

What advice would you give to a student who's just starting lessons? Don't be too hard on yourself if you don't get something right away, it may not be easy, but just keep practicing because if you practice you will be sure to progress.

What's your go-to song or artist when you're relaxing? True Colors by Cindy Lauper

If you could play any instrument that you don't already know, what would it be and why? Guitar because I've always found it to be an interesting instrument to me.

What's one fun fact your students might be surprised to learn about you? I really enjoy ziplining!

Thank you, Krista!
