Outdoor Plants

As the summer heat softens and the days begin to cool, September is the perfect time to refresh your garden with vibrant, hardy outdoor plants. Here are our top picks to keep your landscape thriving this month:

🌸 1. Mums (Chrysanthemums)

Bursting with color and classic autumn vibes, mums are a fall favorite! Plant them in containers or garden beds for long-lasting blooms through October. Available now in a variety of colors: golden yellow, burgundy, white, and deep orange.

🌿 2. Ornamental Grasses

September is prime time to plant ornamental grasses like Fountain Grass, Muhly Grass, and Miscanthus among others. These low-maintenance beauties add texture, movement, and winter interest to your garden.

House Plants

Our greenhouses are home to a huge variety of indoor plants. From everyday household favorites to rare and hard to find unique plants, we have it all. Come take a stroll and explore some the coolest plants available in our area. You won't find these in your chain stores.

Plant of the Month The Camellia

🌸 Why Camellias Are Perfect for September

Many varieties of camellias, especially Camellia sasanqua, begin to bud and bloom in early autumn, making September the ideal time to introduce them to gardens. Featuring them now helps customers get ahead of the season and enjoy months of color. Cooler September temperatures and increased rainfall create the perfect conditions for planting camellias. This gives them time to establish strong roots before winter and sets them up for healthy spring growth.
