Again.
Whatever Dave.
As you wish.
I'll bring her to RPD for 3:00pm tomorrow per the orders.

Read our orders, correct yourself, let me know when I'm picking her up, make sure she brings what she needs for school in the morning or be prepared to drop it off in am.

Thx,

If she doesn't have school the next day, you have her for the day, not overnight.

8-8 will work.

As I mentioned in earlier emails, 2019, she had no school on your birthday and you had her for the day-9-9.

In 2020, you had her overnight because she had no school the next day. She was on vacation.

There's no need for you to make things difficult-even though that seems to be your MO.

8-8 or 9-9.

Thanks

I would love to have Rebecca early tomorrow, she will be staying overnight regardless of what you choose to do. Orders are in place.

As far as the rest I'll let my attorney handle it, you and I clearly recall things differently and a hearing is probably for the best at this point.

Thanks,

Then you forfeit April vacation as well.

The judge said that she shouldn't be traveling out of state in the middle of the school year and I happen to agree.

8 or 9 tomorrow morning?

There no point in you taking her overnight Sunday and I WON'T argue with you about it.

April vacation is going to be out of state.

And no, just landed and I will see Rebecca for birthday and our time this week.

Thanks,

April vacation is fine but there will be no out of state travel while she's still attending school.

As far as now historical past events, I will not entertain your request.

Have you forfeited your time for tomorrow?

Given that no agreement was made I am planning on having my make up time for February break during April break.

Would you like to discuss the owed make up time from December and from Halloween?

Thanks
