

What is LED Light Therapy?

How can pain relief be so easy, and also so good for you?

The net result of light therapy is a cascade of beneficial chemical reactions throughout damaged nerve cells that stimulate healing.

This response can be directly attributed to increased blood flow.

Enhanced localized blood flow improves tissue oxygenation.

How it works

Inlight Therapy systems provide low-level light therapy (LLLT), or polychromatic light therapy (PLT), when multiple wavelengths are emitted simultaneously.

- Increase blood circulation
- Reduce pain
- Decrease inflammation
- Trigger nitric oxide release
- Trigger ATP production
- Accelerate natural healing processes
- Rejuvenate body tissues
- 20-minute session

Pain Relief and Wellbeing

Many people with symptoms of pain or impaired circulation associated with the following conditions experience positive results from using PLT:

- Non-invasive & all-natural
- Activate restorative healing processes at the cellular level
- Improve energy
- Reduce stress
- General aches and pains: shoulder, neck, back, hands, wrist, leg, knee, ankle, muscles, etc.
- Inflammation and swelling: arthritic joints, tennis elbow, and carpal tunnel injuries
- Brain function
- Bone fractures
- Burns, bruises, & wounds
- Neuropathy
- Skin conditions
- Mood disorders
- Cold hands and feet
- Speeds-up exercise recovery time
- Enhances athletic performance

Inlight Therapy products are legally marketed as a Class II Medical Device under FDA indications for use to temporarily relieve minor pain, stiffness, and muscle spasms; and to temporarily increase local blood circulation. The light emitted from Inlight Therapy devices is within the visible to infrared spectrum and consists of non-ionizing radiation, which is safe for use. Clients choose Inlight Therapy PLT for its convenience, value, drug-free, and non-invasive healing properties.
