

About Miller Energy (.ME)

Newly discovered technology, Miller Energy is a recently established energy-producing power plant company that focuses on cost savings. Miller Energy has successfully completed a pioneering procedure that has never before been carried out in the energy industry. This is a revolutionary single motor design that removes all the conventional equipment found in power plants, such as turbines, pipelines, generators, stacks, cooling water, and other machinery. Yireh power plants, developed by Miller Energy, require no additional fuel for 80 years, leading to a remarkable 75% reduction in monthly electrical bills for consumers and a 90% reduction in power plant construction costs. Removing the enormous traditional fossil fuel complexes eliminates high construction costs, high consumer costs, all emissions, all hazardous materials, and all pollutants. Should remove all government power plant regulations, all green regulations, and items associated with energy production problems. The Yireh power plant is basically an underground commercial building with a large electrical motor; it's that simple!

As a privately owned entity, we utilize unique proprietary technology to supply electricity to households and businesses for a fixed monthly electrical bill. We serve communities by forming a cooperative, which is established through investments from individual households. Each cooperative serves between 8,000 and 15,000 households and is powered by a compact force, the undisclosed Yireh motor. While our energy product is noncarbon, recyclable, and nonhazardous, we run 24/7 with no added fuel and do what no one else can.

The monthly electrical bill will be set at $38.50 for life (equivalent 75% saving outside U.S.) The investment for the Miller Energy consists of 15,000 households, requiring an investment of $239.48 from each household or business in the supply grid. ME will build additional Yireh motors so others in the municipality may join with no investment at $38.50 for life. Go online and join now, we only build one contract at a time!
