I'm back at Dawson operating Mayor Rahm Emanuel initiative for City College students to work on transportation jobs, which umbrellas City Colleges of Chicago Chancellor Cheryl Hyman's Reinvention Phase II – College to Careers plan.

I returned to Dawson as of Monday, Jan. 30. I left Dawson in July 2011 to work for the Chicago Urban League to coordinate the Contractor Development Program in regards to marketing, networking, technical assistance, and curriculum facilitating; which is a boot camp for contractors to learn the business end of the construction business.

Before I left CUL, I was also doing the SBA Teaming Pilot Program, an initiative to form & prepare A/E/C joint-venture business teams to compete for larger federal contracts, they may not have had the capacity or capability to compete for individually.
