

DISCLAIMER – LEGAL NOTICES – WEBSITE

General Principle

This website does not constitute an offer, recommendation, or solicitation to buy or sell securities, shares in funds, or other financial instruments. It is not intended for individuals for whom such an offer or distribution would be illegal under their jurisdiction, or who are not authorized to receive such an offer.

Local Legal Restrictions

Our website is not intended for individuals who are subject to a jurisdiction that prohibits access to or use of this website due to their nationality, residence, or other reasons. Individuals who are subject to such restrictions are prohibited from accessing the website.

Copyright Notices and Usage Restrictions

All content on this website is copyrighted. Storing or printing individual pages for personal, non-commercial use is permitted. However, full or partial reproduction, transmission (electronically or otherwise), modification, linking, or use of the website for public or commercial purposes is not permitted without our prior written consent.

No Warranty and No Guarantee

All information provided on this website has been compiled with the utmost care. The published content and opinions come from sources we consider reliable. However, we do not guarantee the accuracy, completeness, or timeliness of the information. These can change at any time due to circumstances, without any obligation to update them. The value of investments in securities, derivative products, shares, or fund units may fluctuate, and there is a risk that an investor may not recover the entire originally invested amount. Past performance does not guarantee future results.

Limitation of Liability

We exclude any liability for losses or damages of any kind, whether direct, indirect, or consequential, arising from the use or access to this website or through links to third-party websites. Furthermore, we assume no liability for manipulation of users' IT systems by unauthorized third parties. We explicitly draw attention to the risks of viruses and targeted hacking attacks. To mitigate such risks, we recommend using up-to-date browser versions and regularly updated antivirus software. We also advise against opening emails from unknown sources or unexpected attachments.

Links to Other Websites

This website may contain links to external websites operated or provided by third parties. We have not reviewed these websites and do not assume responsibility for the content or information provided on these sites. We make no guarantees regarding the accuracy, completeness, or legality of the content of these external websites or any offers or services contained therein.