DEVELOPMENT
SINCE 2011

BENEFITS OF FUTSAL

The game of Futsal frequently brings players into one-on-one situations with their opponent. This encourages quick decision making and helps to develop skills in ball handling, passing and team play.

We offer a balanced training program that is designed to teach youthful soccer players fundamental ball-handling skills. At the same time, our Futsal training program is focused on improving a player's overall technical development. Many of the skills and proficiencies are transferable to the 11-a-side game.

The nature of Futsal, with the smaller confines of the pitch, makes it harder to find space and more difficult to escape from tight situations (unlike traditional 5-a-side, where players can play the ball off the wall) Also, the smaller heavier ball encourages players to develop strong ball control and passing techniques.

Futsal teaches young players the importance of ball retention, being confident on the ball, and receiving a pass under pressure, which are all important fundamental skills that we look to develop in young football players that are practiced regularly within a game environment in Futsal.

Futsal also supports young player development in other ways. The speed and fluidity of the game support players in understanding and improving their skills in the transition (counterattacking) phase.

In Futsal, teams are often either defending a counter-attack or in the process of launching one after breaking down their opponents. This is recognized in modern football as a vital component for young players to understand and apply. The ebb and flow of the game also result in all players being required to feel confident in both defending and attacking situations.

Due to the limited space on a Futsal court, the game intrinsically encourages movement and rotation from players as well as a sense of innovation and creativity to unlock defenses and create some space for yourself or your teammates. In many ways, it replicates what is required from attacking midfielders and forwards in the 11-a-side game when trying to break through the opposition in and around the 18-yard box.

Futsal is a means for developing a more technically competent soccer player. As illustrated above Futsal can play an important supportive role in improving the technical qualities of the future generation of 11-a-side players.

Setting the standard for elite futsal training and competition in the USA, US Youth Futsal's Nationwide Academy program will improve player development by providing high quality and consistent futsal training environments, meaningful futsal competition, and coaching education.

The Futsal Academy offers players a unique opportunity to develop and compete in a year-round futsal centric environment alongside other dedicated and skilled players from a variety of youth soccer clubs.

619FUTSAL HISTORY

The Leader Of Futsal In San Diego County

619Futsal, established in 2011 by Sean Bowers and Mike Gentry, is the largest futsal league in San Diego. Drawing players from all regions of the County, 619Futsal started the futsal revolution in Southern California and continues to be the leader of the sport in the region.

We provide a forum for players to learn the game of futsal in a non-competitive environment. Our focus is on player development, skills, and teamwork; not trophies! Over 2,000 players participate in our youth leagues annually.

In June 2018, 619Futsal was awarded USYF Academy status and is the only USYF Sanctioned Futsal Academy in Southern California. Since its inception, the Academy has served over 300 youth players.

We have been focused on the development of local youth soccer players through our leagues, camps, clinics, and our 619Futsal Academy.

619Futsal is committed to maintaining its independence and objectivity in the formation of our Academy teams. We are NOT a club and have no soccer club affiliation.

Although we utilize the support and cooperation of soccer coaches from many neighboring soccer programs, we have a strict "no recruiting policy." 619Futsal wants to produce a positive environment where each player can be their best.
