

At home on the Internet

at Delta London Armouries Hotel

Business travellers enjoy an added convenience

Imagine an exhausted business traveller... someone who has just finished up a day-long meeting. Striding through the lobby of the Delta London Armouries Hotel, the guest is anxious to collect any messages. But not just phone messages. Now, thanks to a bright new idea, the guest can also get electronic mail, quickly and easily. And later, the same guest can surf the World Wide Web while enjoying food and a beverage in the hotel's lounge.

It's a brilliant concept created by Website International with whom the hotel has partnered. For just $2, guests can spend 10 minutes at one of the E-mail Express booths located in the hotel lobby. The Cantata Lounge features two private booths which will seat up to six guests. With a $10 prepaid card, they can access on-line services with a high-speed line substantially faster than a conventional modem. Services include personal e-mail, travel information, World Wide Web links to business and recreation sites, local weather, on-line entertainment, chat lines, graphics, business applications, and the latest head-to-head computer games.

Definitely an idea whose time has come!

Step right up and check your latest e-mail at the E-mail Express booths located in the lobby at the Delta London Armouries Hotel. Or visit the hotel's lounge and connect with a variety of on-line services for just $10 an hour.
