

Rad School Seeking World Class Educators for 2021-22 Academic Year

Educatio is a learning studio in Livingston, Montana providing space and culture for exploration, creativity, ingenuity and innovation. By combining best practices in project-based/experiential learning and the implementation of common core curriculum standards, Educatio aims to meet students' academic needs in a flexible, mixed-age environment that emphasizes real-world experiences and engages kids with the community and natural environment.

Positions Available

Teacher/Collaborator

Creative in Residence

Educatio is able to construct either position as full or part time to accommodate the right candidate.*

Responsibilities

Introduce concepts and promote further learning for mixed-age elementary students in a small group setting.

Guide students in the exploration, research, and vision of their ideas; facilitate students to create prototypes and project presentations for real audiences.

Provide support as students face challenges, overcome obstacles, find solutions, redesign and reflect.

Model engaged learning alongside students by thinking big, improvising, and having fun.

Promote UN Sustainable Development goals within a supportive like-minded cohort.

The Teacher/Collaborator will be responsible for direct instruction in elementary math or language arts, through science and humanities topics of study; design interdisciplinary projects; work with students to produce high quality learning exhibits for the community.

The Creative in Residence will be responsible for direct instruction in art/craft/trade skills (for example, music, jewelry, ceramics, woodworking, painting, metalworking, etc.); work with students to produce arts and goods to sell in support of the school during their residence.

Qualifications

Experience and interest in honoring the competence and independence of children

Ability to positively interact with ALL students

Value for inquiry-based education

Ability to leverage student interests, relevant challenges and professional tools/experts to:

- design engaging interdisciplinary projects

- converse about the value of individuality

- create equitable and inclusive learning spaces

- implement accountability structures that help students reach goals

High level skill in effective communication with:

- students

- parents

- coworkers

- community members

Teaching Certification, 5+ years classroom experience, and/or Master's Degree or beyond preferred

To Apply

Send letter of interest and resume to Emily Post, emily@educatio.life.

Interviews will be scheduled as received. Hiring to be completed upon review of resume and letter, interview, demonstration of successful teaching ability and approach, conversation with references and background check.

Salary: Competitive and commensurate with experience, in addition to health insurance stipend.