POW★MIA Ceremony

Our ballroom contains a very special empty table reserved to honor our missing comrades. Set for six, the empty places represent men and women missing from each of the six services - Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard, Merchant Marine and Air Force. This Honors Ceremony symbolizes that they are with us, here in spirit. During this solemn ceremony, the narrator will describe the meaning of this special table and its contents.

Cake Cutting Ceremony

The cutting of the cake, to be served as dessert for all attendees, is a tradition of a formal military ball. In most cases, the youngest or oldest serviceman or servicewoman participates in the event. Due to the uniqueness of the All Service Academy Ball, a cadet or midshipman from each academy is chosen to participate. Each makes a ceremonial cut into the cake as a few words in recognition of each institution are spoken.

Toasts

Traditionally, toasting is a gesture of raising a glass to the lips to honor a person or a group as part of the ceremony of a formal military dinner. It is not necessary to drain the glass used in the toast; a mere touch of the glass to the lips satisfies the ceremony, or for that matter, an empty glass raised to the lips may be used for the toast.

Toasts this evening will be offered by cadets and midshipmen. Please join as a group in the responses:

Guest Speaker

Colonel (Retired) Sean Williams United States Army

Sean Williams is a 29+ year veteran of the United States Army, recently retired in February 2025—but who was counting after nearly three decades of moves, deployments, and uniforms? A native of Harleysville, Pennsylvania and a proud graduate of the United States Military Academy Class of 1995, Sean spent most of his career as a Green Beret in the Army's Special Forces, operating routinely alongside the joint force and leading Soldiers from the tactical edge to the strategic level. His service included six combat tours in Iraq and Afghanistan, command at multiple echelons, and senior roles including Deputy Executive Officer to the 38th Chief of Staff of the Army, Garrison Commander of Fort Wainwright, Alaska; Chief of Staff of U.S. Army Alaska; and Chief of Staff of Installation Management Command, responsible for Army installations around the world.

At his core, Sean is a husband and a father, and the resilience of his family—through 13 moves and years of deployments—remains the foundation of everything he has accomplished.

Today, Sean continues his commitment to national security with KPMG LLP as part of Federal Advisory Services, where he works with the Department of War to help protect the nation's critical infrastructure and find better, smarter ways for the enterprise to operate. His transition reminded him that purpose doesn't end with a DD-214; it simply takes a new form.

Service has always extended beyond the uniform. Sean volunteers as a coach for girls' high school flag football, mentors candidates for West Point as part of the Admissions Field Force and stays engaged through KPMG's Veterans Business Resource Group and the Highlands Ranch Metro District. Whether on a field, in a boardroom, or around a table with transitioning veterans, he continues to invest in the next generation of leaders.

Sean and his wife, Erin—his high-school sweetheart and best friend—live in Highlands Ranch, Colorado. Their son Brady is a proud member of the West Point Class of 2029, and their daughter Maggie is a Colorado high-school sophomore and tennis and flag-football athlete. As a family, they love skiing, RV trips, and embracing every adventure the mountains offer.

Above all, Sean is honored to join this year's Colorado All-Service Academy Ball, where families, alumni, cadets, and midshipmen from West Point, Annapolis, the Air Force Academy, the Coast Guard Academy, and the Merchant Marine Academy come together to celebrate service, tradition, and the next generation of leaders. Though it is the Army's turn to host, tonight's event belongs to every Academy represented—a reminder that while each institution has its own proud history, our nation's strength comes from the combined commitment of all who choose to serve.

Commemorative Coin

Commemorative coins are frequently used throughout matriculation at a service academy and within the military to recognize significant milestones or events. Midshipmen and cadets were presented with a 43rd Annual Colorado All Service Academy Ball commemorative coin upon their arrival this evening.

State Side

The "Wings, Waves, and Valor" challenge coin serves to remind us of each service's role in defending our country. At its center, the Colorado flag's bold red "C" and golden core are set against the majestic Rocky Mountains and steadfast evergreen forests.

An eagle soars prominently above, its wings embedded with the stars and stripes of the United States flag, embodying freedom, strength, and the nation's commitment to honoring those who serve. This striking imagery honors the unwavering valor of those who have protected the nation's ideals across generations. Below, Wyoming's iconic bison, proudly bearing the state seal, stands as a symbol of enduring strength and determination, paying homage to the courage rooted in its heritage.

This coin unites Colorado and Wyoming in a shared reverence for valor, ensuring that the sacrifices of past and present heroes are remembered and celebrated in 2025 and beyond.

Federal Side

Military Academy Acronyms - Identifies each of the 5 Service Academies, which produce officers of character and professionalism for the nation.

Stars - Stars in between each of the 5 names to signify the separate, yet connected bond that all members of the military academies experience

Large Star - A symbol to represent not just being associated with an individual military academy but to the overall defense and freedom of both the Constitution and the United States

Elly, we are so proud of you!
