WHAT INFORMATION IS PROVIDED BY A QUANTUM NUTRITION SCAN?

A Quantum Nutrition Scan is non-invasive and painless. It is a literal biofield scan which can detect toxin and body chemistry levels.

Each report includes functional information and treatment

Body chemistry has everything to do with the way we function, including our thoughts, feelings, thought patterns, physiology, behavior, pathology, and emotional regulation.

Many pathologies are the direct result of body chemistry imbalances. A primary nutrient we are deprived of is good quality water. Although we are told that distilled or spring water is good for us, the truth is, just the plastic bottling alone, takes away from benefits that could be in the water. We are told by many authoritative figures such as the FDA and medical science what we need to stay healthy, including the quantity of what we should consume. The truth is your body may not need what Tommy or Susan need. What are the levels in your body system and what is your body asking for?

Two primary deficiencies in our food supply are magnesium and iodine. A simple survey of friend and family will reveal that many believe they need calcium. Calcium can be very dangerous when taken incorrectly or overloaded.

A simple, quick, and non-invasive quantum nutrition scan can answer your questions as to what your body needs. A nutritional plan does not have to include a depriving or boring diet. It could be as simple as adding something more, reducing the in-take of a specific favorite, or accessing top-quality water to support the flushing of harmful chemicals in your microbiome.

EATING RIGHT? EXERCISING? AND STILL... NOTHING IS WORKING? CONSIDER THIS...

Too many diets have failed. Many hate their diets and are feeling punished by it. If you have asked the question of, "why isn't this diet working for me?" – we ask that you look a little deeper and consider that it is not a failure on your part at all. It just may not be the correct diet for your body needs. Not all diets are made equal.

If you feel like you are failing or if your diet feels like a punishment or torturous event, these experiences alone could negatively impact all the hard work you have put into caring for yourself. Before getting on any diet, it is best to know exactly where your body chemistry is and what your personal needs are.
