Reflection: "And they Came"

The Epiphany is God revealing Himself to all nations through the "3 Wise Men." The Magi journeyed towards Bethlehem. They noticed the star and, instead of waiting for perfect clarity, allowed themselves to be led. They responded to the Divine drawing them into the deep-unknown. These men came from the East, crossing distance and uncertainty, not knowing exactly what awaited them. They travelled a long distance, yet fatigue did not stop them. And when they finally arrived, they did not find what the world would call greatness. They found a small, poor, hidden child. Still, they knelt and worshipped. And in that moment, the Gospel tells us, they were filled with great joy. The Magi were open-minded, and that is the secret of the Epiphany: those who come with open hearts are never disappointed.

Beside this openness stands the figure of Herod, who also heard of the child and knew where He was to be born. Yet Herod did not come. His heart was closed by fear and by the need to protect his power. The contrast is striking. The Magi travelled far with open hearts and found joy, while Herod remained where he was, wallowing in unrest.

As we begin this new year, this celebration calls us to reflect on some questions. How do we come to God? How do we come to worship? How do we come to one another as a parish community? It is easy to come with fixed expectations, with old habits, or with guarded hearts shaped by past experiences. Yet the Epiphany invites us to come as the Magi did. Willing to be led, ready to be surprised, and humble enough to kneel when God reveals Himself in ways that challenge our assumptions.

When the Magi encountered Christ, they did not leave the same way they arrived. They returned home by another road, because an encounter with the living God always changes our direction. To come to Christ with openness is to allow Him to reshape how we think, how we see, and how we live.

Safeguarding holds a vital place in the life of the Archdiocese of Glasgow. Our parish is committed to promoting safeguarding awareness and embraces our collective responsibility to provide care and protection for everyone.

This Epiphany, the invitation is simple but demanding. It is an invitation to come with trust and total surrender. If we come with open minds and open hearts, we will discover, as the Magi did, that God never disappoints. He meets us not always as we expect, but always as we need.
