

Alumni In Recovery is a safe and reliable group of responsible young people in recovery from drug and alcohol addiction, speaking in schools with which they are familiar.

A-in-R's goal and purpose is to give teens and preteens an opportunity to identify with the speaker's feelings and experiences, helping them to opt for positive choices along their own paths.

Raising Awareness and Providing Hope

Bridging Young Adults In Recovery To Speak In Schools

Alumni In Recovery is a volunteer program, started in Bergen county, offering a service to school systems.

The young adults participating, have a desire to give back to their communities. They share their stories in hopes that our youth avoid the path of addiction to drugs and alcohol through better choices.

Alumni In Recovery Members Speak To Students About:

- The potential path to addiction by providing their own stories.
- Bridging the gap of misunderstandings around the disease of addiction.
- Root causes of drug and alcohol use.
- Dispelling mystification of drug addicts/alcoholics.
- Physical dependency to drugs and alcohol.
- The behaviors and consequences leading up to recovery.
- Hope and support to those affected by addiction.
- How they live a life of recovery (a daily life of positive choices in action).

Parents who have lost their children to addiction pair with A-in-R members for evening presentations for the community.

Alumni In Recovery Guidelines

A-in-R guidelines for participants are available for school administrators and staff to review prior to a presentation.

A-in-R participants are clean and sober and actively working a program of recovery.

All A-in-R participants commit to attend A-in-R meetings on a regular basis.
