idea

We've been Story Tellers long before we can remember being Story Tellers. With each conversation we've had, thought we've thought and scenario we've imagined, we've been Story Tellers.

We've been intrigued by colors and textures, our senses inspired by what we've enjoyed or woken up in.

For longer than we can remember, we've known things and seen things we have barely been able to understand but have shelved until... one day.

Within this little book I present simple images.

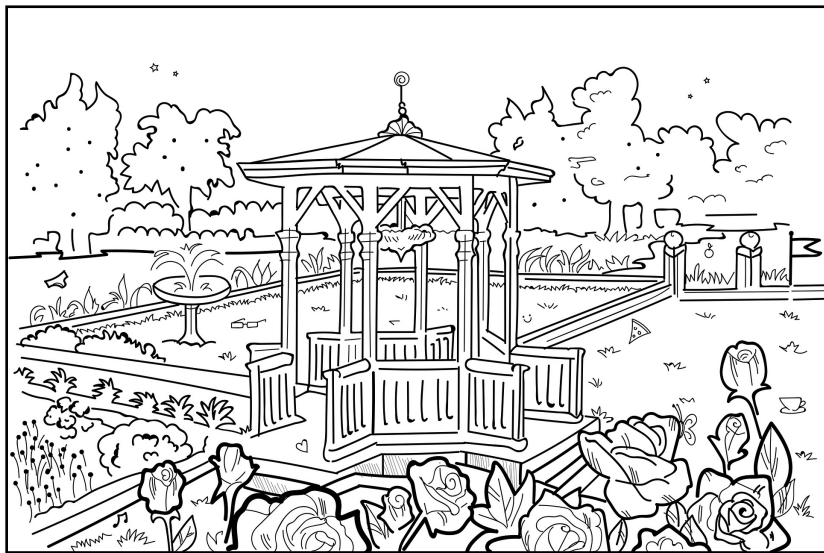

I also provide lines to help navigate your pencil or pen.

To some, it may seem a menial, childish task... this coloring, imaging and writing. But to those who have been transformed by wisdom, intrigued by innate innocence, this opportunity is another moment to show us what remains possible.

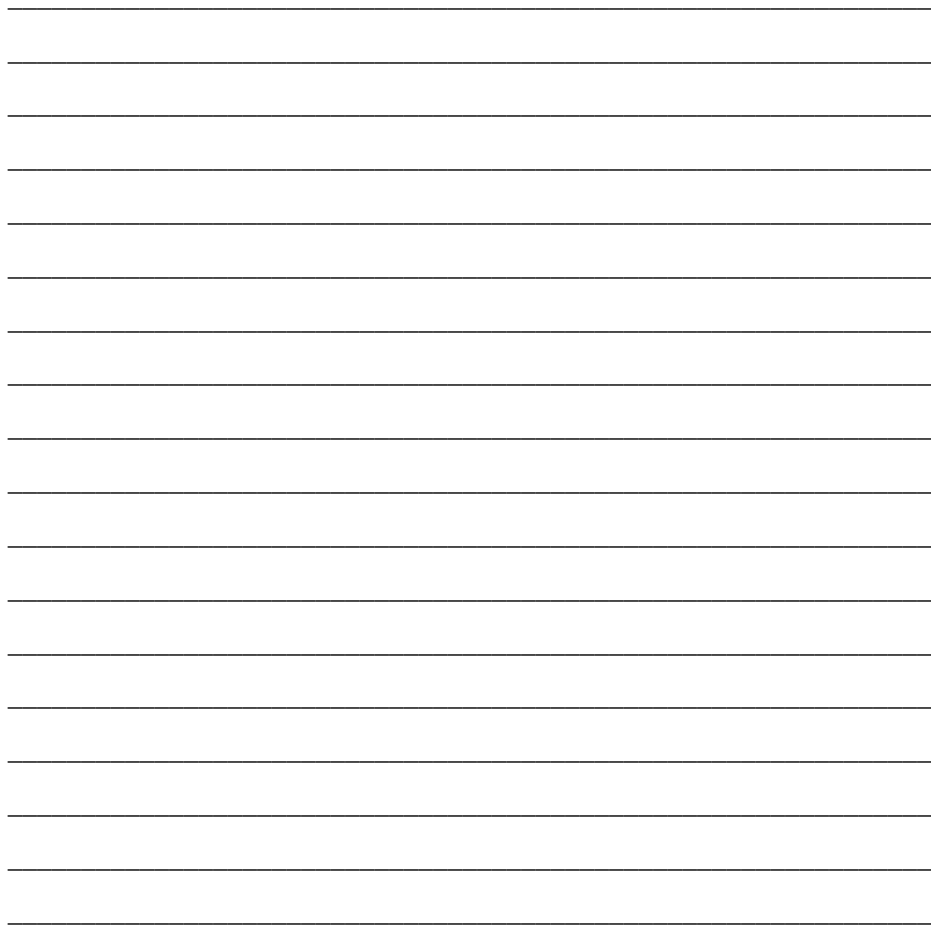

Slowing every thought and peering into a realm where there are no boxes or lines, only blank canvases.

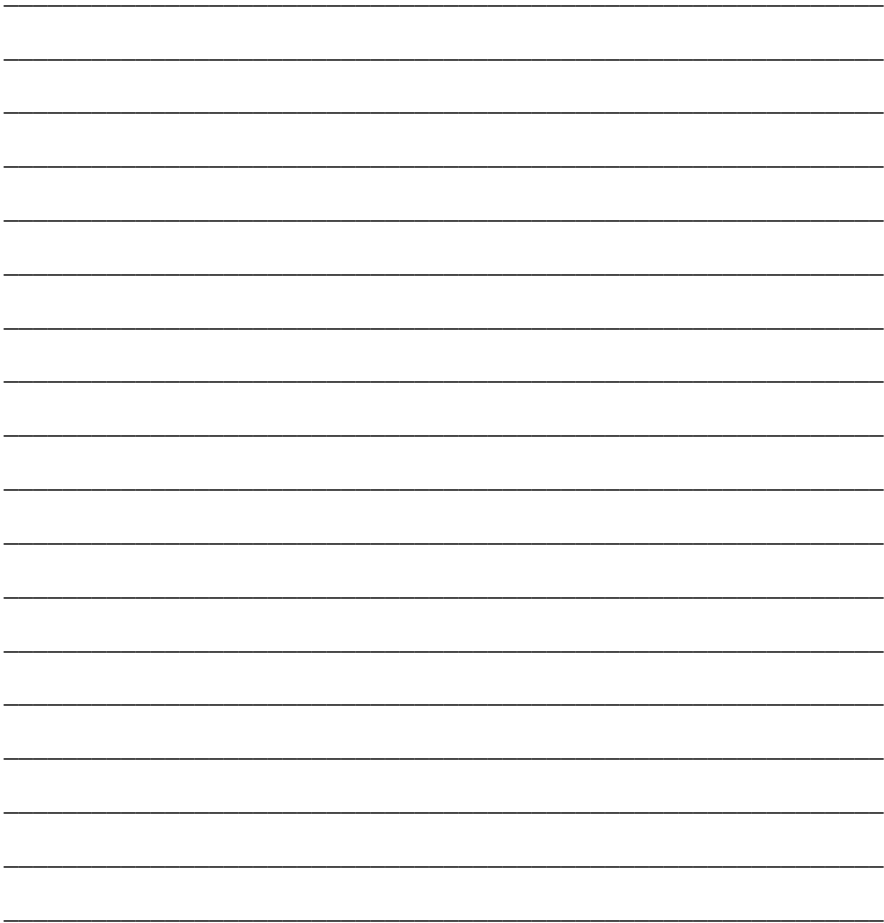

Enjoy my friends!
