

Transfigure Your Life Today

Personal Engagements

I offer personalized time to help you identify and awaken your goals. This will happen through a naturally developing relationship with Jesus who is substance holding all reality together. Together, we will effortlessly develop a plan to transform your life and awaken your destiny. This is no black and white process but one where we travel a relational road together. A process where there is no rush, but rest.

Career Development

Truest learning is a becoming process. We are one coin with two sides. They are distinct but not separated. From one side we continue to delve deeper into raw relationship with our Light and so begin to wake up in I AM, intuitively knowing the details of all systems from within. From our other side we will find ourselves identifying what area of learning drives and empowers you. Researching the best route for you to presently be developed in and so step into the position or area (career, education, etc.) that you know within yourself is yours for the living.

Relationship Coaching/Stirring

Because we are nonlinear, multi-faceted beings who are infinite in our discovery through I AM, our time together will be as unique as we are. My reference point in Yeshua, the nexus point of all reality. From here we see the face of wholeness as a mirror into ourselves and continue inward, onward and upward. There is a divine process that guides us into a fully transfigured life and so the restoration of all things.

Health and Wellness

Health and Wellness is as wide as it is deep. Whether you are a person who is walking a life of recovery or a child/youth ready for empowerment within personal dreams, family/friend dynamics or school happenings, I will be with you on this road - clearing the way as we go.

Whether you are a woman or man ready to take your interpretation of health and wellness to your next level, I am here to stir you in this; navigating you naturally from a heavenly place where I hold this big sacred picture, seeing its vast landscape of details. In this way of Wisdom, I continue to be formed.

We discover the key of movement here: To live in your own steps, walk upon your own path.

Mindfulness and Meditation

Years of stillness. Infinite moments of gently quieting what is within - allowing all that surrounds to be as it may. Respectfully laying my personal opinions and beliefs down so that the Voice of Truth would resound. This way of living in order to see I am free, naturally revealed the multitude of opportunities to engage life from within and without. This being the grounds of developing a foundation of intimate relationship with our Creator.

And while I have many doors of meditation for a person to walk through, my truest intention is to cultivate a space for you to discover your own doors. Your own thresholds of entrance.

Meditation is a place of Being where we simply connect. This is wildly colorful and exquisitely quiet... even in its resounding and booming sounds!

Group Engagements

These group engagements are as colorful as we are.

From more intimate gatherings designed to bring out our most colorful self, to diverse events implemented by the scale in which we dream and go!

My background as an event planner/coordinator and outreach planner/executer developed in me skills cultivated from a strengthening foundation of Love and Life.

Driven by a fire naturally quieting any internal voice that would dare limit us, keeping us from this transfigured life with I AM. In reality there is no separation.
